Henley-Putnam University™
INTELLIGENCE
COUNTERTERRORISM
PROTECTION

JSS
Published Quarterly by Henley-Putnam University Press
with support from the University of South Florida Libraries

Journal of Strategic Security (JSS)
Call for Papers

Intelligence: Analysis, Tradecraft, Training, Education, and Practical Application

Deadline: July 1, 2015
Submit online: http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/jss/
Email questions: editor@henley-putnam.edu

The Journal of Strategic Security (JSS), a publication of Henley-Putnam University, seeks manuscripts for an upcoming special issue on future trends in intelligence analytic tradecraft, training, education, and practical application for the Fall 2015 issue, Vol. 8, No. 3.

The Fall 2015 issue of JSS is a venue for authors to share ideas and exchange information about best practices and lessons learned in the intelligence domain. In this issue, the Journal is particularly interested in exploring the following issues and questions:

- What are emerging issues that will challenge intelligence professionals in government, industry, and academia the remainder of the 21st century?
- What are future trends in intelligence tradecraft, training, education, and practical application in different contexts and industries?
- What should the intelligence discipline learn from other domains would help advance research, knowledge, and professional development in intelligence education, training, and application?
- What is the nexus between intelligence education and training?
- How should professionals in the intelligence domain better educate the public and media on intelligence matters?

Henley-Putnam University™
INTELLIGENCE
COUNTERTERRORISM
PROTECTION

JSS
Published Quarterly by Henley-Putnam University Press
with support from the University of South Florida Libraries

Papers on these and other topics will be considered alongside the publication of the proceedings from the annual conference of the International Association for Intelligence Education (IAFIE). Authors from business, government, and academic sectors are encouraged to submit their intelligence research for this issue of the Journal of Strategic Security. We are especially eager to receive papers with an international perspective.

The Journal looks forward to reviewing manuscripts beginning on the July 1st, 2015 submission deadline.

- Submit papers online at: http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/jss/.
- Please contact: editor@henley-putnam.edu for more information.
- Submission information and links can also be found below

About the Journal of Strategic Security

The Journal of Strategic Security is a peer-reviewed professional journal published quarterly by Henley-Putnam University Press. JSS provides a multi-disciplinary forum for scholarship and discussion of strategic security issues drawing from the fields of intelligence, terrorism and counterterrorism studies and protection, among others.

The Journal encourages diversity in theoretical foundations, research methods, and approaches. Quantitative and qualitative studies, for example, each offer valuable contributions to the field of strategic security. Academic disciplines of anthropology, criminology, economics, history, international relations, political science, psychology, and sociology are welcome, as are the applied scholarly fields of security studies, strategic studies, and intelligence studies.

JSS emphasizes contemporary security issues, so manuscripts focused on non-state actors are of particular interest. Topics such as counter-terrorism, jihadist ideology, genocide, global policing, insurgencies, intelligence, inter-state armed conflict, irregular warfare, radicalization, risk management, terrorism, threat assessment, and violent extremism are well suited to the Journal, as are contributions on security threats arising from transnational crime, global climate change, failing states, energy and environmental security issues, and health crises such as pandemics.

JSS publishes review articles, original empirical research, and analytic/conceptual works that contribute to a better understanding of security-related threats and ways to prevent or mitigate their impact. Each article should analyze and include implications for policy and practice.

Please direct all questions to: editor@henley-putnam.edu.

Who Should Submit?
We welcome submissions from students, practitioners, scholars, and experts from the intelligence, military, and law enforcement communities, as well as from government, academia, and the private sector. If you have a proposal for a paper or a completed manuscript, please submit it for consideration according to the instructions below.

Submission Guidelines:
http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/jss/submissionguidelines.html

Articles should be approximately 5,000 words. Occasionally, we print longer pieces (up to 10,000 words) depending on the context and advanced notification.

Format
All documents should be in Microsoft Word format and submitted though the Journal's online manuscript management system: http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/jss/. No hard copy submissions will be accepted. Submitted articles should be in 12 pt. Times New Roman font, single-spaced.

* Please limit the title of your article to no more than ten (10) words.

Annotations

Henley-Putnam University™
INTELLIGENCE
COUNTERTERRORISM
PROTECTION

JSS
Published Quarterly by Henley-Putnam University Press
with support from the University of South Florida Libraries

To receive full consideration for publication, all submissions must be carefully referenced using footnotes that include, if applicable, the URL of online sources. Authors may be required to re-submit their submissions if they are not in the proper format. No in-text citations will be accepted.

No bibliography is required; however, all papers should be well-documented with the supporting references appropriately cited in footnotes that strictly follow the Submission Guidelines:
http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/jss/submissionguidelines.html

Direct all questions to: editor@henley-putnam.edu

Henley-Putnam University™
INTELLIGENCE
COUNTERTERRORISM
PROTECTION

JSS
Published Quarterly by Henley-Putnam University Press
with support from the University of South Florida Libraries

Review Process

All papers deemed suitable and within the Journal's scope will be sent for peer review. The author may be asked to make changes as requested by the reviewer and editor before the work is published. Only original manuscripts not previously published or under consideration for publication elsewhere will be considered. If accepted for publication, manuscripts cannot be published elsewhere without written permission from Henley-Putnam University Press.

About Henley-Putnam University

Henley-Putnam University (HPU) is a leader in the developing field of Strategic Security. HPU uniquely offers a focused curriculum, advanced degrees, collaboration across military, law enforcement, and intelligence community boundaries, and real-world experience from its faculty and founders. The University is nationally accredited by the Distance Education and Training Council, an accrediting body recognized by the U.S. Department of Education, to offer bachelors and masters degrees in Intelligence Management, Terrorism and Counterterrorism Studies, and Strategic Security and Protection Management, and a professional Doctorate in Strategic Security (DSS). Visit us online at: http://www.henley-putnam.edu.