Call for Applications for the Post of Co-Editor

The Editorial Board of the open-access, online journal Genocide Studies and Prevention: An International Journal (GSP) seeks three co-editor for the rubric mapping of humanitarian technologies & internet resources. The editors will be researchers with advanced degree or equivalent experience possessing a wide-ranging background in the fields that comprise genocide studies, broadly conceived, and a strong commitment to keeping the journal the premier publication in the field. The initial term for editors will be three years.

GSP is the official journal of The International Association of Genocide Scholars (IAGS). IAGS is a global, interdisciplinary, non-partisan organisation that seeks to further research and teaching about the nature, causes, and consequences of genocide, and advance policy studies on prevention of genocide. The IAGS, founded in 1994, meets to consider comparative research, important new work, case studies, the links between genocide and other human rights violations, and prevention and punishment of genocide.

GSP is an indexed and peer-reviewed online and open access Journal that fosters comparative research, important new work, case studies, the links between genocide, mass violence and other human rights violations, and prevention and punishment of genocide and mass violence. GSP contains articles on the latest developments in policy, research, and theory from various disciplines, including history, political science, sociology, psychology, international law, criminal justice, religion, philosophy, literature, anthropology, and museology, visual and performance arts and history.

Key qualifications sought for the positions include

- a publishing record;
- editorial experience;
- strong organisational and time management skills;

Applicants for the position of editor should submit the following materials:

- Description of qualifications for the position applied for
- A brief statement outlining the applicant's goals for the rubric they will be responsible for
- Curriculum vitae

Applications are due by October 15, 2014, and should be e-mailed as PDF attachments to Christian Gudehus (christian.gudehus@rub.de), Editor in chief of GSP.