A colleague in county government has asked me to pursue the following question:

Whatever happened in the fight over birth and death records between the Ohio Department of Health and the county libraries?

Can anyone out there give me an update? I seem to recall a discussion a while back on this but don't recall a definitive answer.

Thanks.

Suzanne,

The whole thing is still up in the air and sounds like it is to be so for some time. There is an article about it in the most recent issue of the Ohio Genealogical Society Newsletter, and that information is also posted on the OGS website <http://ogs.org/> and click on the link, "October Update on HB 95 shenanigans" for the details. If you need more recent info, then it's best to contact the Ohio Genealogical Society at <ogs@ogs.org>.

You might want to see if the following article is still available on the

The Morning Journal

Stats back in library's stacks
By HEATHER FOWLER , Norwalk Bureau Chief 11/01/2003
NORWALK -- Don't be surprised to see local historian Henry Timman
''physically embracing'' microfilmed copies of vital statistic records that were returned early yesterday to the Norwalk Public Library after being confiscated by the Huron County General Health District.
''We ordered (the health district) to return the records to the library,'' said Prosecutor Russell Leffler, whose office was asked to issue a legal opinion when the health department removed the estimated 20 microfilm rolls from the library on June 30.
The records contain birth and death statistics and became a bone of contention between the Huron County Genealogical Society, which paid for copying the records, and the health district.

Suzanne:
As an Ohio Library employee and a peson who works with genealogy issues, I can state this much for you:

The new law that went into effect July 1, 2003 caused a huge uproar in the Ohio genealogy community. The reason given for this change was explained as "protection against identity theft". I don't exactly buy into that reason. I do know that it caused certified copies cost to go from $10 to $15 and did away completely with uncertified copies. Also, in the past I could contact our local health depts. and ask them to search for a death date for me. Now they no longer will do that unless I pay the $15 fee which of course I will not!
Hope this helps a little.

Suzanne,

We had death certificates on microfilm in our library for the years 1908-1995. The Huron County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society had purchased them and was housing them in our library. When the laws changed this summer, one interpretation was that the records could only be housed by Health Depts., so our county health dept. came and took the records from our library.

The Gen. Society actually owned the records, so they were the ones to pursue it.   After some time and a lot of hard feelings, the County Prosecutor made the decision that the records should be returned to us. We do have them back, but no one is sure it's over.

As far as I know, the other libraries who had records taken have not gotten them back.

Hello from Connecticut!!!

Can any give me a idea what the cost of a library
subscription to Ancestry.com??

I've visted thier website.. Are these costs the same to libraries for unlimited access?

Can anyone from Connecticut confirm that Heritage
Quest will soon be available to Connecticut Libraries via ICONN.ORG???? We heard that is going to be thru a local genealogical group but haven't seen any press
releases from the ICONN.ORG.

Our subscription for HQ is up in April and if this ICONN.org rumour is true it would allow us to get Ancestry.com for our patrons.

Yes, the Connecticut-wide availability of HeritageQuest through iConn is definitely "in the works". Here is the "press release" prepared for Connecticut's genealogical librarians:

Breaking News from iCONN: The Connecticut Digital Library
For the CLC Genealogy Roundtable, November 19, 2003

ICONN will be adding two new databases beginning January 1st, 2004. This is made possible with the use of federal LSTA funds. Final purchase is pending approval of the Department of Information Technology.

Heritage Quest Online Access will be available to Public Libraries and remotely with a Connecticut public library card.

ProQuest Information and Learning's HeritageQuest Online provides libraries with a unique, growing collection of research materials for tracing family history and American culture. Beginning or professional genealogists can now use this powerful online library, with original page images for all documents, from the convenience of their home or at the library. Indexes and original page images mean no additional trips, inter-library loan requests or work by researchers or staff.
HeritageQuest Online is the marriage of ProQuest's Genealogy & Local History

Online, a collection of over 25,000 family and local histories, and content from HeritageQuest, the largest genealogical data, products, supplies and equipment provider to consumers and institutions in the United States. In August 2001, ProQuest acquired HeritageQuest. Founded in 1983, HeritageQuest has been in business for nearly 20 years and brings a wealth of genealogy data to ProQuest.
HeritageQuest Online is designed specifically for patrons in public libraries who are either just beginning their family research or who after years of work are still uncovering their past. With over 25,000 books, the entire U.S. Federal Census, and other expanding collections, HeritageQuest Online gives any library the chance to tap in to one of the largest collections of genealogy material in the country.

AccuNet/AP Multimedia Archive
Access will be available to public libraries, schools, academic libraries and state agencies and remotely to public and academic library patrons.
The AccuNet* /AP? Multimedia Archive is the most extensive online collection of copyright-released multimedia material available. It contains The Associated Press' current year's photo library and a wide selection of images from their vast negative and print library, dating from the 1840s. Today, the Multimedia Archive contains over 750,000 photos and continues to grow daily as hundreds of new photos are added to the Archive. This is a great resource to bring history alive, available at a low fixed cost for unlimited access for online review and printing, with quick and easy search functions.

Good afternoon,
I'm curious as to the cost and particulars of obtaining state-wide licensing of genealogical databases.
As a member of the Maine Library Commission, I'm told that most, if not all, genealogical databases are prohibitively expensive to add to our current list of searchable databases. I'm also informed that most vendors are not open to a state-wide arrangement. Could I tap the collective wisdom on this subject?

Thanks

John

and state agencies and remotely to public and academic library patrons.
The AccuNet* /AP? Multimedia Archive is the most extensive online collection of copyright-released multimedia material available. It contains The Associated Press' current year's photo library and a wide selection of images from their vast negative and print library, dating from the 1840s.
Today, the Multimedia Archive contains over 750,000 photos and continues to grow daily as hundreds of new photos are added to the Archive. This is a great resource to bring history alive, available at a low fixed cost for unlimited access for online review and printing, with quick and easy search functions.

Hello from Connecticut!!!

Can any give me a idea what the cost of a library
subscription to Ancestry.com??

I've visted thier website.. Are these costs the same
to libraries for unlimited access?

Can anyone from Connecticut confirm that Heritage
Quest will soon be available to Connecticut Libraries
via ICONN.ORG???? We heard that is going to be thru
a local genealogical group but haven't seen any press
releases from the ICONN.ORG.

Our subscription for HQ is up in April and if this ICONN.org
rumour is true it would allow us to get Ancestry.com for our patrons.

I don't usually jump in on these question, but since we have access to AncestryPlus and HeritageQuest online, I wanted to let the others know of our experience. The Great Bend (Kansas) Public Library serves a population of 15,000. We paid $500 a year before the state library negotiated for a statewide contract with Heritage Quest online. I don't know what the state contract costs. We took money from our CD-ROM budget to afford $1,500 to pay for AncestryPlus. Both services are wonderful tools for genealogists.

I use our technology lab to teach classes on genealogy. Anyone who wants to take a look at the outlines to the classes can check out my

Tom,

Well, I guess Ancestry decided once again to thumb their noses at the libraries. New York Passenger Lists is gone from AncestryPlus just as quickly as it appeared. I'm getting really tired of this.

The database is listed there, yes. Searching though, this is what I got.

First, to search images, you have to select one of the listed years, then month, then ship. Doing that, I get the following message.

We were not able to authenticate you.

Please try accessing the database again.
If you still have problems, see your librarian, teacher, or system administrator.

		It's interesting that the Gale Rep told you that New York Passenger Lists is only available via Ancestry.com. Our library subscribes to AncestryPlus and we are able to access the lists and images just fine.

		From the main AncestryPlus page go to Immigration Records and click on ...more. New York Passenger Lists is available under Featured Immigration and Emigration Collections. This database is an index to the passenger lists of ships arriving from foreign ports at the port of New York from 1851-1891 and links to images. Ancestry is still in the process of uploading these images and indexes. I don't know what their time frame is, but as of now they seem to have most of the images for 1850-1862. You can browse by year > month > ship. It doesn't appear these images are searchable via an index yet. I got no hits for Smith!
Still, this is one of the few places other that the Ellis Island website that offers digital images of ship manifests.

		I'm excited about the potential of this database. For now anyway, it seems to be available to libraries through AncestryPlus. I hope it is not removed!

		Since there still seems to be conflicting information I thought I would share the reply our database services coordinator received from our Gale Representative.

Our product manager checked with your contact at MyFamily Inc regarding your question. The reply:

     The New York Passenger list is a separate database and is only available on Ancestry.com. It includes images of the original documents.

     Passenger Immigration List Index (PILI) is available in both Ancestry.com and AncestryPlus.

Dear List:

Has anyone experienced problems using AncestryPlus' Community Boards. When I access it through Ancestry.com, it works just fine. However, whenever I use AncestryPlus, I receive the dreaded page cannot be found message. For example, if I do a keyword search on the name Levander I get search results ok, but whenever I click on a link, I get the page cannot be displayed message.

I also noticed that Ancestry.com and AncestryPlus point to two different URLs for the links. For example, on Ancestry.com:
http://boards.ancestry.com/mbexec/message/an/
localities.northam.usa.states.illinois.counties.cook/5480
On AncestryPlus
http://boards.ancestry.com/mbexec/message/5535/an/
localities.northam.usa.states.illinois.counties.cook/5480

Before I bother our tech guy to see if this is a problem with our browser's settings, I want to know if others are experiencing problems. And if so, how did you fix the problem.

Thanks for your time and replies.

Hello all, I will search the archives for past discussions but also wanted to post -- new people, new projects, etc., didn't want anyone to miss out. :) I am looking for some info.:

1. Looking for large obituary collections -- more than 150,000-200,000 entries.

2. Looking for such collections that have been digitized

3. Looking for such projects that have received grant funding to do so

4. and wondering how you handled copyright concerns.

Would be interested in any and all related info.

Much thanks, as always, Mary

Conference Information
8th New England Regional Genealogical Conference
New England Crossroads 2005

March 31 - April 3, 2005
Portland, Maine ~ Holiday Inn By the Bay

   Lecture proposals are now being accepted for the eighth New England Regional Genealogical Conference to be held March 31 to April 3, 2005, at the Holiday Inn By the Bay in Portland, Maine. The deadline for submission is no later than March 15, 2004.

In addition to topics relating to New England localities, history, migration, immigrant groups, archives, public record groups, settlement patterns, church and cemetery records; submissions covering general genealogy methodology and skills, source records, writing family histories, and technology topics are also encouraged. Topics suitable for workshops will also be considered.

 Each session will last one hour, including questions and answers. Camera-ready syllabus material, due November 15, 2004, is required for each presentation. The syllabus will be distributed at the conference.

Any number of proposals may be submitted, and more than one proposal may be selected. Each participating NERGC society must propose and have accepted one lecturer, who does not need to be a member of that society. All speakers will receive complimentary conference registration for their first lecture and a complimentary evening banquet ticket for each additional lecture.

Please include the following information with each one-page proposal:

?   Title of the presentation with a brief, comprehensive outline or abstract

?   Short summary (50 words or less) for the conference brochure

?   Audience level - beginner, intermediate, advanced

?   Audio/visual requirements

?   Speaker's full name, address, email, telephone, and fax

?   Society or organization sponsorship (if applicable)

?   Brief speaker biography

?   Resume of previous lecture experience

 Submissions may be mailed or emailed to the program chair at the following address.

Hi Mary,
The Saskatchewan Genealogical Society has an obituary collection of about 750,000. I would be interested in hearing about any responses you get regarding this type of project. The digitization of our collection would be a great space saver in our library but due to lack of funding this is not too likely to happen in the near future.

Hello...

Those libraries who have AncestryPlus how much time do you allow patrons to stay on the PC?? Do you have to have a signup sheet dedicated to Ancestry Plus.

I was told by the ancestryplus sales lady that they don't offer remote access and charge per user (on site).

Our library has only 7 internet terminals and they are heavily used so we need to have a designated terminal
for AncestryPlus or at least a sign up sheet.

We have access to internet at all 22 branches with multiple computers in

In the Virginia Room we have two terminals and there are signs on both giving priority to local history and genealogy researchers. We allow 60 minutes in the Virginia Room and people may stay on longer if no one is waiting.

Hello...

Those libraries who have AncestryPlus how much time do you allow patrons to stay on the PC?? Do you have to have a signup sheet dedicated to Ancestry Plus.

I was told by the ancestryplus sales lady that they don't

offer remote access and charge per user (on site).

Our library has only 7 internet terminals and they are heavily used so we need to have a designated terminal

for AncestryPlus or at least a sign up sheet.

We have it on two computers. No remote access. Time is not limited so far, but we are watching it. Our microfilm readers are limited to 1 hour when someone is waiting so we'll probably go this route with the 2 genealogy computers one day. So far no big problems. We do not have a sign up sheet.

We have AncestryPlus and HeritageQuest accessible on any of our public computers (both full Internet access and catalog/subscription database PCs--about 50). We treat it the same as our other subscription databases, such as the Infotrac magazine indexes, so people have unlimited use (and some stay all day).

Denver Public Library has 17 consecutive user "ports." Our Customers can access AncestryPlus and Heritage Quest from any PC in our library system. HQ is remote as well. We have few use limitations for any of our PC's which can cause a crunch for computer time as our genealogy researchers are competing for use time with those using the catalog, checking their e-mail, playing war games or browsing porn "sights."
A few of our PCs are 20 minute use and I have been "agressive" with requesting folks to move on.

We have access to internet at all 22 branches with multiple computers in each branch. Sign up is for 30 minutes at a time. At this time we are using a paper signup system.

In the Virginia Room we have two terminals and there are signs on both giving priority to local history and genealogy researchers. We allow 60 minutes in the Virginia Room and people may stay on longer if no one is waiting.

You must come in to sign up.

Approximately six months ago, we installed the ?PC Reservation

Station.? At first, we thought it would be more work for us. However, it has solved so many problems.

We have 9 computers. Patrons come to our desk and they must receive a pin and computer number. They then go to the computer and enter the pin number. Our bookmarks page then comes up with the time that they are allowed, which is 60 minutes. They will be given a 5-minute warning. They must let us know if they want their time extended. Depending on the number of people waiting, we can extend it from 1-5 hours. We rarely extend it more than one hour.

This helps us in the following ways:
1)   No more bickering between patrons as to who was there first and how long.
2)   No more children jumping on the computers without checking in first. And, they no longer can change any of our bookmarks.
3)   The computer now keeps our usage stats and a monthly report is given to the director.

We really love it.

Here is the web site that describes it:

we pay for unlimited access to Ancestry Plus....that means all the people at our 8 internet work stations and our 2 database stations plus our librarians can all be using it at once. All patrons are guaranteed a minimum of 30 minutes on the computer, which we do not have to enforce unless it is extremely busy.

that seems to be different than what they told us....but I am not sure what their standards and differentials are....for different types of libraries, populations served, etc.

We also have AncestryPlus with 16 consecutive ports which can be accessed at any PC at any of our branches. We also have Heritage Quest. I am very thankful (and so are our patrons) that we can offer both because they do complement each other.

Because of the heavy user demand on all of our PC's we use SAM
(Public Library Internet Access Program) from Comprise Technologies, Inc. This is system-wide and limits use of any public PC to two hours per user/card holder per day. At the end of the first hour, the patron is disconnected but he/she can log in for a second hour unless other patrons are waiting.

We have three PC's in our Local History & Genealogy Department which are reserved for people doing Missouri/Genealogy research.
Just outside our room are 27 other PC's for use by the general public who must have either a library card or a guest computer card. In addition, there are 6 more PC's in our Young Adult Department.

Dear Pam,
The Arizona State Library collects books on all the states but we have very few books on Florida. We HAVE only the following:

The Florida Genealogist, vols. 20-22
Discovering genealogical roots in Suwanee County, Florida
The Black experience : a guide to Afro-American resources in the Florida State Archives
Guide to the records of the Florida State Archives Keystone kin
Searching in Florida : a reference guide to public and private records Supplement to Genealogy and local history : a bibliography, 1978 ed Florida State Library
Florida's last frontier : the history of Collier County

If you have any books, other than the ones listed, we would be interested in having them. Especially books on county history. We will gladly pay for postage.
Sincerly, Daniela

Thank you for your responses to my inquiry about statewide library subscriptions to AncestryPlus and HeritageQuest Online. The responses indicate that statewide library access to HeritageQuest Online is available in Kansas, Texas, Connecticut and Maryland. AncestryPlus is available in libraries statewide in Michigan, New Hampshire and Georgia.
No state offers both subscriptions statewide.

of several of them off the top of my head, but I was wondering if anyone

Subject: [Genealib] Missing census pages on NARS microfilm Message-ID: <sfd1c33c.099@groupwise-server.acpl.lib.in.us>

     This week I had an experience of someone finding a family on the 1900 California Soundex, but they couldn't find them on Heritage Quest.
We went to the 1900 CA Census reel for Lassen County, and discovered that the desired page (page 5 within ED 48 or 49) was never filmed. The filming went from page 4B to page 6A. Hence the image was never digitized by Heritage Quest.

     Similarly, earlier this year, a patron discovered that the first page of the 1850 census of Allen County was not included on the microfilm He had seen an earlier typescript of the census compiled in the 1950s, so he knew the page once existed. So he went to the National Archives to look at the original schedule and found the desired page right where it was supposed to be.

      My question: Does anyone know if NARS has a procedure for correcting filming problems such as these? Is there a process for making such problems known to them? Will there ever be plans for new filmings?
And finally, if the corrections are made, will Ancestry and Heritagequest make the necessary corrections in their own databases?

      I think these problems, though rare, underscore the need for stressing to patrons how important it is that they examine the filmed soundexes and older census transcripts (when available), in doing census research.

I don't know of any such list. Probably a good project for someone to then submit for posting on one or both of the USGenWeb census <http://www.archives.gov/facilities/wa/seattle.html> .) Films can be rented via ILL or directly.

*   The Houston Public Library System's Clayton Library (through 1920, some 1930, purchase program in place for remainder) - http://www.hpl.lib.tx.us/clayton/
*   Allen County Public Library (http://www.acpl.lib.in.us/) says they have through 1920, I'll bet they're working on 1930 also.
*   Detroit Public Library's Burton Historical Collection
-http://www.detroit.lib.mi.us/burton/

Interestingly enough, Chicago's Newberry Library (http://www.newberry.org/) does not have a complete collection, but what they do have is fully itemized on their website.

If I were a betting person, I'd probably say that if a major city has a dedicated genealogy library, it is usually highly-sponsored by the local genealogical society, and that society probably makes sure that they have as complete a census library as they can afford. An exception would be those cities with NARA regional archives (e.g. Chicago, New York). (Why buy the films when you can send folks down the road?)

Sarah Kirby has made a valid statement. Denver is just such a case in point. We have a NARA center ten minutes (non rush-hour!) from us. We do have pretty complete census holdings for west of the Mississippi through 1920 and did buy 1930 for Colorado and contiguous states.

But the larger comment from me is since we have access to the census through AncestryPlus and Heritage Quest I rarely use the microfilm. I have and continue to enjoy these electronic resources. They have foreever changed and enhanced our research opportunities.

John,
As to the 1900 thru 1930 censuses, filming errors cannot be corrected because the original schedules were destroyed by the Census Bureau after the filming was done. In that case, researchers will have to make do with the information on the soundex cards which were prepared from the original schedules.

As to the 1880 census, decades ago the National Archives transferred the original schedules to the various state libraries or state archives.

The original 1790 thru 1870 schedules are in the National Archives Building, Washington, DC. So far as I know, we have not established a procedure for filming census pages that "exist but were missed during filming" but I will forward this message to the two most appropriate management people.

Re : Missing Pages

I had the same experience with NARS microfilm of 1840's Baltimore Passenger Lists. There was a soundexed index and therefore someone had seen the original but when I went to the actual Passenger List it was missing. I did report this to NARS but don't have any idea what if anything they could do.

Charlene and all,
Baltimore has two filmings - one to the city lists and one to the customs list. You need to make sure you have looked at the correct index to the list you are looking at. M327 is the soundex to the customs lists (1820-1897). Those original lists are fragmentary, especially in the 1840s and what remains are the quarterly abstracts (M596). The original lists were destroyed in a fire. M326 is a soundex to the city lists (M255). Hope this helps.

We have a reservation system throughout our library that restricts access and time of use. While the rest of the library two one-hour sessions, history and genealogy researchers are allowed two two-hour sessions at the present. The requirement of having a library card to access our computers has raised our patron count. If a patron is from beyond adjacent counties, we have guest cards that they may use. Our use of the reservation system on a first-come, first-serve basis has promoted smooth turnover in patron use. We found the sign-in sheets to frequently be forgotten in the haste to chase an ancestor.

Hi Everyone,

Our library system currently has Ancestry. Plus, but we have customers that have been asking for Heritage Quest. Is there a good reason to have access to both web sites??

Yes, if one has the money for it. Our patron clientele likes having both AncestryPlus and HeritageQuest Online. Having both services allows us to offer them census images with search engines for every census (1790-1930 minus 1890). HeritageQuest is particularly popular because of its clearer images as opposed to Ancestry's. Often, a patron, finding the name in a census search in Ancestry, will use that information to browse Heritage's images for a better image (and consequently, a better photostat from our laser printer). Another reason for having Heritage is access to their "Books" section. Although the State Library of Ohio has a 7,000 volume family history collection and a Family Name File of several thousand vertical files, there are at least that many family history titles with full text in Heritage's "Books". It is a veritable library in itself.
Unfortunately, I find the search engine very cumbersome. Nevertheless, it is information almost totally different from what Ancestry has in its thousands of databases outside of the census records. Here, at the State Library, we are upbeat about both of these services. Once again, I see cost as the only barrier to not having both of these excellent services.

Yes.

We love Heritage Quest for census, far more than Ancestry. Having both locks down the indexing to all the available census.

Hello all, I will search the archives for past discussions but also wanted to post -- new people, new projects, etc., didn't want anyone to miss out.
:) I am looking for some info.:

1. Looking for large obituary collections -- more than 150,000-200,000 entries.

2. Looking for such collections that have been digitized

3. Looking for such projects that have received grant funding to do so

4. and wondering how you handled copyright concerns.

Would be interested in any and all related info.

Much thanks, as always, Mary

This is in response to several queries about our system of managing our computers. We use EnvisionWare, Inc. software to manage computer reservations and printing. Their website is at www.envisionware.com <http://www.envisionware.com/> . We found their PC Reservation software to address our need to reduce staff labor in keeping tract of who was on a computer and who's time was up.

EnvisionWare's LPT: One Print Management System has reduced the level of unpaid for copying to zero. We retain the option of overriding the selected limits for courtesy copies or for print errors such as low toner might cause.

If anyone has additional questions, let me know off-line.

Seconded. We've been using LPT:One for two years and it's heaven.

We're still using a signup sheet for computer use rather than an automated system, but we have also found that switching from booking time to first come, first serve has improved patron flow remarkably.
Most don't stay for the hour we allow; probably closer to half an hour.
Conflicts are rare. If someone wants to stay longer, we don't interfere unless we have people waiting.

I should say that the above limits are for our Internet/Microsoft Office machines; we also have machines dedicated our catalog, databases and a few selected Web sites (e.g., our local history and genealogy). These have no time limit and most of our Ancestry users gravitate to them.

nine in Government Information, and four in Law, as well as 12 "catalog"

We also have AncestryPlus with 16 consecutive ports which can be accessed at any PC at any of our branches. We also have Heritage Quest. I am very thankful (and so are our patrons) that we can offer both because they do complement each other.

Because of the heavy user demand on all of our PC's we use SAM
(Public Library Internet Access Program) from Comprise Technologies, Inc. This is system-wide and limits use of any public PC to two hours per user/card holder per day. At the end of the first hour, the patron is disconnected but he/she can log in
for a second hour unless other patrons are waiting.

We have three PC's in our Local History & Genealogy Department
which are reserved for people doing Missouri/Genealogy research.
Just outside our room are 27 other PC's for use by the general public who must have either a library card or a guest computer card. In addition, there are 6 more PC's in our Young Adult Department.

Attached is a list of dupes that we would want to give away (its Christmas!) for the cost of postage.
However, I would like to suggest that if you have a local history book that we do not have, then I would be interested in trading with you.

If you do not have anything to trade, you can still contact me.

As always, first one to respond to me privately at pcooper@indian-river.lib.fl.us has first choice. Please give me the item number.

I hope everyone has a very Merry Christmas Season and Happy New Year!

 We have frequent requests from patrons to view to agricultural census. I have tried to research this census and end up more confused then when I started.
The only place I have found this special census is in the state census at the end of the roll. For example, I just rechecked the 1875 New York State Census and they included it. The "Source" implies that it is a part of the Federal Census. We purchase our Federal Population Census from HeritageQuest and I have never found an agricultural census on them. Can anyone on this list give me a summary of this census and where it can be found. Is it possible that the Federal Population Census from the Archives includes more than the Population Census from HeritageQuest? Thanks,

Mercedes

They are called the "NonPopulation" Schedules and found for many states. I

Dear Mercedes Bleattler:

The non-population schedules are available at the National Archives and Heritage Quest. They are for the years 1850-1880. There are none for 1900-1930 because the were destroyed. The pre-1850 censuses did not do them. The non-population schedules includes mortality, agriculture, some mining, and some manufacture.

Thanks for all the input on the agricultural schedules. By coincidence, just after I posted this query I received a new book "Your Guide to the Federal Census for Genealogists, Researchers, and Family Historians" by Kathleen Hinckley, which has a great chapter on the non-population censuses. It states that in 1918 Congress disposed of the supplemental schedules and offered state archives, historical societies and universities the opportunity to acquire them. It also gives some information about how to obtain them. Thanks, mercedes

The main NARA Nonpopulation Census genealogy page is at <http://www.archives.gov/research_room/genealogy/census/nonpopulation_census_records.html> with links to (almost) all the states (I've got a couple of states to put up yet). On some of the state pages I've indicated state archives (etc.) sources if the original records are not at NARA. As indicated below, some of the nonpops went to state agencies (etc.) before the creation of the National Archives; then in the 1950s, the National Archives acquired microfilm of these schedules (of varying quality) from SOME of those agencies. So, if you can't find what you want in NARA holdings, you'll generally find it at a state archives (etc.).
Things like the 1875 NY schedules were state censuses, and naturally we don't have those.

I have a question regarding donations...or rather, lack thereof.

Do any of you house materials in your library that you don't actually own?

We have a box of yearbooks, minutes, etc. from our local Liberal Arts Club. I recently discovered that we don't have any documentation on the materials, such as a donor agreement form. I contacted one of the older members of the club to try and determine what the agreement was when the materials were first brought here (which was before my time.) She did not remember when they were actually placed here, but said she thought the agreement was that the club still owns the materials and we just house them.

We are wondering 1.) if other libraries do this, 2.) if so, do you have a form signed releasing the library from responsibility for the materials, 3.) what do you do about costs incurred from caring for the materials?

We have a donor agreement form for patrons to sign when actually turning ownership over to the library, but none for this kind of situation. I'd be interested to hear if others have one.

Thanks very much.

Yes, we do house them. My predecessors thought this was a good idea. I disagree.

1. As noted, yes we have other's belongings. Often, though not always, there is only a memory of what was given under what conditions.
Sometimes there is an inventory, sometimes not. Provenance? That's an area in the south of France, right?

2. Nope. We are lucky to have an inventory.

3. We eat all the costs, for cataloging, housing, preservation, duplicating, etc. We do get to ask the owners to please let prospective publishers get their copyright reprint permission, but when the owners don't reply for months, you know who takes the heat, cause the materials are in THE LIBRARY.

Not a good idea. You want a warm shelf, build it and store it yourself.
Else wise give it to us free and clear, all rights that you can grant, etc. The idea of accepting conditional gifts, providing all the feed and housing, and then not being able to control them, is difficult to work with.

Thank you for the responses on donor agreements and housing materials your library doesn't own - they were very helpful.

I personally think, as most do, that not housing what you don't own is the best way to go. Unfortunately, my powers that be are thinking otherwise, so I need to draw up some kind of agreement for this that will cover us. Thanks again!

Coming in late on this discussion...

The Buffalo & Erie County Public Library in Buffalo, NY, houses the collection of the Western NY Genealogy Society but did not enter into the arrangement without a legal contract spelling out what each party is and is not responsible for. (I have not seen the contract.) The library may also begin housing the collection of the Polish Genealogical Society under similar circumstances.

Traci,

For years we had the minutes of the Woman's Club here in Wilson, several metal boxes full. Finally, Patrick, I think, asked them to either sign them over to us or to house them themselves, so they came one day and carted them away.

I am trying to do a family tree but not getting much of anywhere I need some help..
    Attacted is how far I have gotten so far
-------------- next part --------------

      This is all I know about my family history so far:

      My mother's grandfather, George William Spreng, Sr. was born in Philadelphia, PA to Joseph & Beatrice Pitts Spreng on 12/27/23.
  He had a borther by the name of Joseph Spreng, Jr. and has three sisters: Fern Wurst of Moorsetown, New Jersey; Joan Alloway of Willingboro, New Jersey; & Beatrice Heath of Virginia Beach, Virginia. He was married to Barbara Clements. They both lived, until their death in Ellseworth, Maine. George died on 1/22/01.
  Besides myself George also has four known grandchildren: Richard Spreng who is married to Hidi last known to be in Bangor, Maine; Robert Spreng who is married to Bridgette Chililia and last known to live in North Andover, Massachussetts; William Spreng Who was last known to be in the Air Force and in 2001 stationed at McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey; & Cassidy Gustafson last known to be living in New Orleans, Louisianna.
      George's grandparent were Joseph & Louise Spreng. They had (besides Joseph) two daughters: Mary and Elizabeth.
      George's brother, Joseph,Jr. died in Philadelphia, Penn. on 12/02/03. He was married to Katharine Lynch who still lives in Philly. They had two sons: Joseph M. Spreng III; and Keven Spreng of Allentown, Penn; and two daughters: Dianne Saye; & Katherine Kindall.
      Barbara Clements Spreng was born on 8/5/21 and died in Ellsworth, Maine on 12/12/96. She had one sister, Phillis Clements Harrington who was born on 10/19/03 married Henry Harrington and died in Bangor, Maine on 9/8/99.

Dear Lady Lovelace

Tempting as your request is you have stumbled into a "moderated" list for genealogy librarians. This forum is for librarians who attempt on occassion to discuss issues in librarianship as well as how to become more proficent in answering genealogy questions. But we are not able to handle genealogy questions on this list.

I recommend that you do a few things. Go to your nearest public library, no matter how large or small, and ask for assistance. There may be someone on staff who handles genealogy questions, there may be a genealogy or local history collection in your local library system or they may need to refer you to someone who can help you.

You want to seek out a good genealogy beginners class which may be offered through your local library or the one they refer you to. Ask about genealogical societies and clubs in your area. Do not forget to look in the business section of your local telephone book for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It is a church but under the listings there may be a Family History Center listing. If there is call that number and see about visiting them and chating with the volunteers who run the place.

As you have email capabilities you may want to seek out Cyndislist.com or FamilySearch.com   Both sites have excellent help pages and beginners guides.

Good luck in your research.

To unsubscribe from this list go to < http://mailman.acomp.usf.edu/mailman/listinfo/genealib> which should be where you signed up for the list and at the bottom of the page, it tells you how to unsubscribe.

Don't worry about accidently signing up for a wrong list. And it isn't that this list doesn't want to help people with their geneaology because most of us are more then happy to do so. Many Lists are for a specific purpose and helping beginners is not the purpose of this list.

I don't know how you found this list but there are lists for newcomers to genealogy. One that is designed for newcomers can be found at < http://www.rootsweb.com/~newbie/>
You may find other lists at <www.rootsweb.com> also. On their main page, click "Mailing Lists" at the very top of the page. Try www.cyndis list as well.
There are probably other locations also. You could probably do a google search for 'genealogy mail lists.'

Both Rootsweb and Cyndis List also have sites that help you learn how to do research.

Good Luck in your search for help and as you do more research.

Hi, colleagues,

Though genealogists subscribing and requesting research assistance from us is not a frequent occurence, I wonder if the name "Librarians Serving Genealogists" invites the interpretation that the list's purpose is to connect needy genealogists with idle research professionals.

The LSG website communicates the list's actual purpose, but a mailing list can be cited anywhere on the web, possibly enabling people to subscribe who have never seen our website or mission statement.

If we start getting more off-topic requests like this one, it may be worth considering if the list's name contributes to the confusion. Not that I have a better alternative in mind. :)

I think a more workable solution will be for me to modify the Welcome message

Subject: Tampa Bay History Center New Site MEDIA ADVISORY Monday, December 08, 2003

The Tampa Bay History Center Inc. announced today a building site for their new facility after a successful approval by the Governing Board of the Florida Communities Trust (FCT) on Sunday. The history museum will be located at the eastern edge of Historic Cotanchobee-Fort Brooke Park located adjacent to the Garrison Channel across from Harbour Island and runs eastward from the Waterside Marriott Hotel to the Beneficial Drive Bridge.

Mayor Pam Iorio, Hillsborough County Commissioner Kathy Castor and former Florida Governor Bob Martinez were among the Tampa supporters who appeared before the FCT Governing Board on Sunday. With FCT approval, the City, the County and Tampa Bay History Center Inc. will commence negotiating the agreements necessary to construct the new history museum in Historic Cotanchobee-Fort Brooke Park.

?The location of the Tampa Bay History Center at this historic site helps tie together our remarkable string of assets along the downtown waterfront,? said Mayor Iorio. ?This is a significant project for all of Hillsborough County and a positive step forward for our downtown development.? City, County, State and History Center officials consider the urban park site as the best of available downtown locations. The area has historical significance as the birthplace of modern Tampa.

Commissioner Castor echoed the Mayor?s enthusiasm stating ?It?s an outstanding partnership between the City of Tampa and Hillsborough County. The History Center will be a focal point for the entire community. It will be a place were residents and visitors alike will be able to celebrate the region?s rich and culturally diverse heritage.?

History Center Chairman George Howell said, ?Our Trustees and members could not be more excited to have a new home for the History Center. We have made a 100% commitment to creating an urban museum park unparalleled in our community for its historic significance, educational investment and recreational opportunities. The success of this City, County and private partnership has major implications for cultural development in this community for decades to come.?

A central component of Historic Cotanchobee-Fort Brooke Park is a memorial to the Seminole Wars, consisting of an elevated walkway over native stone. Bronze tablets describe Fort Brooke and the men, women and children ? Seminole and American ? who lived during the wars. The addition of the History Center will greatly enhance park visitors? appreciation for these events and their understanding of Tampa Bay?s role in regional, state and national history.

I'm sure that will work. When considering the amount of messages one gets on soc.genealogy.computing or soc.genealogy.german, which I read daily, you'd faint at the amount of off topic requests and discussion.

A patron is wanting to know what "trail fever" mentioned in the entry below refers to. I have two guesses 1)malaria or 2) Texas fever or babesiosis, a blood disease spread by ticks among cattle. Any ideas?

On this day in 1873, Margaret Borland died of "trail fever" or "congestion of the brain" after successfully leading a drive of about 2,500 cattle from Victoria, Texas, to Wichita, Kansas.

I don't know about "trail fever" but we have several sources that list "congestive fever" as malaria, which does seem to have some bearing on the matter. See From A

You may find examples of this type of agreement called Deposit Agreements. I have some in my files somewhere I will be happy to photocopy and mail. When I came to this collection in 1997, we had been doing the same thing but with no paper trail. I managed to convince our library board that as a rule, we really should not accept new collections without owning those collections. There's the issue of using public resources (ours) to benefit a private organization (even if it is a non-profit) .

I have had good luck in convincing some of these organizations to donate their materials and have gotten paperwork taken care of even if I have no clue how we originally got it or when.

Most of the women's organizations are pleased to be asked to make the donations and understand about pieces of their materials that have gotten buried under a bed or in an attic and disappeared over the years.
 They are happy to have a place to house it, preserve it, and have it available for future generations. Sometimes the men's organizations do not see this big picture.

The Society of American Archivists has some good brochures that encourage donating materials to an appropriate repository. Once is about donating your organization's records. You might want to check out what you can find on their website.

Just point out all the benefits of having y'all own the materials and start selling - I know, it's like the ONLY thing we have to do :-)

We would be very happy to accept these two items for our genealogy collection. Unfortunately, I have no budget to pay for the material or postage. If that is alright, please send the items to:

We have have a good African-American and Native American collection and receive the publications of the very active Colorado Chapter of the Ohio

I suggest with the term "congestion of the brain" a possible encephalitis (Western Equine, Eastern Equine or St.Louis).   These are seen in outbreaks today in the area and are carried by the mosquito.   Further information can be found in The Mereck Manual or on Medlineplus.com

  Subject: [Genealib] Trail Fever

  A patron is wanting to know what "trail fever" mentioned in the entry below refers to. I have two guesses 1)malaria or 2) Texas fever or babesiosis, a blood disease spread by ticks among cattle. Any ideas?

  On this day in 1873, Margaret Borland died of "trail fever" or "congestion of the brain" after successfully leading a drive of about 2,500 cattle from Victoria, Texas, to Wichita, Kansas.

JOB OPENING

Title Systems Librarian, New Hampshire Historical Society

Duties The New Hampshire Historical Society, the state's premier organization preserving and sharing Granite State history, and the leading genealogical library in northern New England, is seeking a Systems Librarian. This is a permanent full-time position with duties in two major areas: (1) traditional cataloging and reference, and (2) managing state-of-the-art computer and phone systems in three buildings.
            The Systems Librarian is responsible for the cataloging of new printed acquisitions and providing back-up reference service in our main reading room. The systems aspects of the position entail managing the purchase and technical support of the Society's computer hardware and software, training staff in the use of PCs and phones, and taking the lead in developing long-range technology plans.

Requirements

*   MLS with emphasis on cataloging and technical services
*   Knowledge of microcomputer library systems, MARC, AACR2, OCLC, DDC and Sear subjects
*   An enthusiastic and service-oriented attitude
*   Excellent written and oral communications skills
*   Three years experience working in a library

Salary   Competitive

information. www.genealogy-quest.com/glosseries.com/diseases1.html

Shirley Ferguson
Librarian
Carnegie Center of Brazos Valley History

Typhoid fever - An infectious, often-fatal, febrile disease, usually occurring in the summer months, characterized by intestinal inflammation and ulceration caused by the bacterium Salmonella typhi, which is usually introduced by food or drink. Symptoms include prolonged hectic fever, malaise, transient characteristic skin rash (rose spots), abdominal pain, enlarged spleen, slowness of heart rate, delirium, and low white-blood cell count. The name came from the disease's similarity to typhus (see below). Synonym: enteric fever.

Typhus - An acute, infectious disease caused by several micro-organism species of Rickettsia (transmitted by lice and fleas) and characterized by acute prostration, high fever, depression, delirium, headache, and a peculiar eruption of reddish spots on the body. The epidemic or classic form is louse borne; the endemic or murine is flea borne. Synonyms:
typhus fever, malignant fever (in the 1850s), jail fever, hospital fever, ship fever, putrid fever, brain fever, bilious fever, spotted fever, petechial fever, camp fever.

Library Job Opening at the Rutherford B. Hayes Presidential Center

Position: Assistant Librarian

The Rutherford B. Hayes Presidential Center seeks a service-oriented librarian to join a team of dedicated individuals in providing access to a variety of library materials, including books, manuscripts, and online indexes, all dealing with history. The Hayes Presidential Museum/Library was established in 1916, and included the country?s first presidential library. It is located on the 25-acre historic Spiegel Grove site, in Fremont, Ohio - close to Toledo and Cleveland. It is also affiliated with the Ohio Historical Society, established in 1885.

Principal duties: Responsible for original cataloging of 19th and 20th century printed and manuscript materials and supervision of copy cataloging. Work closely with head librarian, archivist and photo curator to provide access to printed and digitized materials via cataloging and web publication. Supervise serial acquisition and collection development. Share in reference and broad ranging general library duties and provide support for team projects as required

Qualifications:
?   Required: ALA-accredited MLS degree, with original cataloging experience.
Must have skills to provide access to digital information through the Web.
Must be a self-directed, innovative and flexible team player, able to meet goals, with excellent interpersonal and organizational skills.

?   Desired: 3 - 5 years cataloging experience with OCLC. Knowledge of 19th century American and Ohio history and genealogy. Extensive technical skills including word processing, database management, web-based technologies, HTML, digitizing equipment.

Salary: Low $30,000?s and benefits.

Job setting: Dynamic special library which is a part of a complex dedicated to the life and times of President Hayes, including a museum, mansion and 25 acre park. Collections center on 19th century American history, the Gilded Age, Ohio local history, and genealogy.
Visit our Library Website at <http://www.rbhayes.org/library.htm>.

Please send resume, cover letter, and names of at least three professional

Paul

Will send the obits, Census index is out. Sadly, the Colorado Chapter, OGS closed up shop. A large and energetic group, they relied upon the energy of a small group. It only took one broken hip, a hospitalization for another, and cancer for another and a leadership vacuum developed.
No and I do mean no one would take on the reigns of leadership. A large group like that and gone, poof.

Will mail gratis

Subject: [Genealib] RE: Remote Access to HQ

Thank you each and every one for quick and helpful information on your experience with HQ and remote access! You're terrific! I received lots of help and am encouraged that we possibly can work out remote access with little additional expense and a reasonable amount of time and effort. I'm awaiting a return call from HQ's tech person for our region.

Thanks especially to Joyce McMullin at Alexandria Library in Virginia for sharing her troubleshooting advice for e-mailing to patrons unable to access the database. I'm sure that eventually will be handy to have and that others also will find it useful!

Below is the meat from off-list responses for those who asked.

Thanks again!
Charlotte

Our remote access does not work well for us, but we are unique. On many other sites this works quite well. HQ can give you a few lines of code that must be added to a link on your web page. This will do the authentication for you. HQ cannot figure out why ours does not work well. Our remote users must enter their library card number TWICE in order for it to connect without needing additional authentication. (It ALWAYS works after entering the number the second time.)

Would you share the responses with me please? We have not been able to work out authentication with HQ and our consortium which uses Dynix Horizon.

Our computer tech worked with HQ's technical people so that our cards are recognized. Our guy created a web query box that requests the patron's library card number.   The cards issued by our library all begin with the same 5 digit sequence and are 14 digits long. The secret inside info is that HQ is set up to recognize the 5 digit sequence of our library card and ... additional digits after that.

We just asked HQ to set it up to recognize our library cards numbers. All our numbers start with the same five digits and are the same length. HQ had no problem doing that for us. No extra charge.

Our library provides remote access to Heritage Quest through a password and id method. It is my understanding that the remote access is free with the subscription. Patrons go to our web page, click Electronic Databases, select the home access part of Heritage Quest and type the password and id in the box. HQ home users using AOL must minimize it and open up Internet Explorer or Netscape. Cookies must be enabled and the security setting needs to be at medium. Personal firewalls on home computers cause a problem with the remote access. Mac users may not be able to use the database.
Despite the problems some home users encounter I like HQ. The tech people have also been very helpful when I call regarding a patrons remote problems.

This database is available to us through a group of databases called TexShare. All Texas libraries can participate and pay a much lower fee to the Texas State Library than they would to each individual database vendor.
The remote access works this way. Patrons have a specific web site they must go to. We provide the username and password for them to access all the databases. It's the same username and password for all patrons so we have it printed on a brochure all about the databases.

Subject: [Genealib] RE: Remote Access to HQ

Thank you each and every one for quick and helpful information on your experience with HQ and remote access! You're terrific! I received lots of help and am encouraged that we possibly can work out remote access with little additional expense and a reasonable amount of time and effort. I'm awaiting a return call from HQ's tech person for our region.

Thanks especially to Joyce McMullin at Alexandria Library in Virginia for sharing her troubleshooting advice for e-mailing to patrons unable to access the database. I'm sure that eventually will be handy to have and that others also will find it useful!

Below is the meat from off-list responses for those who asked.

Thanks again!
Charlotte

Our remote access does not work well for us, but we are unique. On many other sites this works quite well. HQ can give you a few lines of code that must be added to a link on your web page. This will do the authentication for you. HQ cannot figure out why ours does not work well. Our remote users must enter their library card number TWICE in order for it to connect without needing additional authentication. (It ALWAYS works after entering the number the second time.)

Would you share the responses with me please? We have not been able to work out authentication with HQ and our consortium which uses Dynix Horizon.

Our computer tech worked with HQ's technical people so that our cards are recognized. Our guy created a web query box that requests the patron's library card number.   The cards issued by our library

all begin with the same 5 digit sequence and are 14 digits long. The secret inside info is that HQ is set up to recognize the 5 digit sequence of our library card and ... additional digits after that.

We just asked HQ to set it up to recognize our library cards numbers. All our numbers start with the same five digits and are the same length. HQ had no problem doing that for us. No extra charge.

Our library provides remote access to Heritage Quest through a password and id method. It is my understanding that the remote access is free with the subscription. Patrons go to our web page, click Electronic Databases, select the home access part of Heritage Quest and type the password and id
in the box. HQ home users using AOL must minimize it and open up Internet Explorer or Netscape. Cookies must be enabled and the security setting needs to be at medium. Personal firewalls on home computers cause a problem with the remote access. Mac users may not be able to use the database.
Despite the problems some home users encounter I like HQ. The tech people have also been very helpful when I call regarding a patrons remote problems.

This database is available to us through a group of databases called TexShare. All Texas libraries can participate and pay a much lower fee to the Texas State Library than they would to each individual database vendor.
The remote access works this way. Patrons have a specific web site they must go to. We provide the username and password for them to access all the databases. It's the same username and password for all patrons so we have it printed on a brochure all about the databases.

We have the following nearly complete runs of magazines that we are trying to find a home for. Preference will be given to sending to a library.
Unless you can pick up, the recipient must pay for UPS shipping, and staff time in packing, which I estimate at $50-100 per title.

Essex Institute Historical Collections, 1941-83, 155 issues
Journal of American History, 1963-79, 68 issues
New England Quarterly, 1966-79, 52 issues Vermont History, 1974-2003, 98 issues

Dear Pam, I have heard many great things bout your conference, great going.
In case you wondered why I was not there I was in North Carolina. I retired from FAU and gadded about and my daughter and son couldn't find me, my car wasn't there as I had gone to a workshop and forgot to tell them.. they decided the only way to keep track of Mother was I would live 6 months in NC with her and 6 months in Boca with my son. the first 6 months in NC ended Nov 1when I came back to FL and I will go back to NC 01 May. Already whe is asking why I can't get back sooner. I guess I should be glad they want me with them but it does make for a disjointed life. Anyhow just wanted you to know about the great job lyou and Jim did. Love, Dahrl

Thank you for your responses thus far.

To be more clear:

Can NATF Form 86 be used to order records of impressed seamen? According to the NARA web site, records include:

"Volunteer Military service performed by persons serving during an emergency and whose service was considered to be in the Federal interest, 1775 - 1902"

Does this cover merchants or others who were forced into service with the British Navy prior to the War of 1812?

Thank you all again.

We often receive inquiries concerning the records for those who worked for the federal government during the Roosevelt administration in the so-called "alphabet soup" agencies like the WPA, PWA, CCC, etc. My question is: do the personnel records for these agencies exist? Or were they destroyed? Or were they kept? The particular question which concerns us now is about the WPA.

We had a similar inquiry this week, from a staff member trying to find any West Virginia writers and artists who were employed on projects outside West Virginia.
We know of course about the projects about West Virginia by non-West Virginians, but do not know how to trace any West Virginians who completed art projects or wrote pieces elsewhere in the country. Any ideas?

List:

You can request CCC discharge papers by writing to:

National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) National Personnel Records Center Civilian Personnel Records

111 Winnebago Street
St. Louis, MO 63118

This, and the following information is from the Springfield-Greene County Public Library web site:

"Persons researching the Civilian Conservation Corps may want to visit the National Association of the Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni web site; of particular interest to researchers is an article about researching CCC Records. The article contains the following advice for obtaining CCC personnel files:

?All personnel files are still held by the federal government. The enrollee or the enrollee's next of kin may request discharge papers. Discharge papers are the best source to find the company and camps the enrollee was assigned to..."

"Other information, including camp and company reports, reside in the National Archives. To date these items are not indexed, but are available for study at the National Archives in Washington, D.C."

The alumni association web site and other CCC links are on 'Cyndi's List - U.S.
History - The Great Depression'.

I wrote to Missouri for my dad's CCC records from his service in Maine. The information therein was rich with details about his two 'tours' there in the late 30s and early 40s.

Hope this helps!

West Virginia also has a set of county birth, death and marriage records (with a few Bible records and other miscellaneous items copied at the county courthouses) done by the Historic Records Commission of the WPA.

The Ohio Birth Records are available for Libraries by subscribing at http://www.gencd.com

They have a rate for libraries listed but it does not tell all of the information.
Example: If several libraries join together the fee is substantially reduced.

A library can cancel at anytime and is not locked into a yearly contract.

W.P.A. projects in Louisiana indexed the births, marriages & deaths for New Orleans and news and obituaries in New Orleans newspapers. They did many translation projects in the City Archives of documents that were originally in Spanish or French. Another project created an index to articles on Louisiana from a military standpoint appearing in local newspapers from 1802-1940 for our National Guard Military Library.

The New Orleans Public Library took over the City Archives Collection in 1946. While we do not have statewide personnel records, we do have a small collection relating to library projects such as bookbinding, outreach, etc. which names personnel involved. We also have the official W.P.A. photograph collection documenting all of their projects in the New Orleans area. A number of segments of this collection may be seen on our web site: [http//nutrias.org/]. The photographs of projects located in other parts of the state were transferred to the State Library of Louisiana in Baton Rouge many years ago.

Message-ID: <BAY3-DAV1048PJa5xLD000b3bd4@hotmail.com>

Good News: NGS GENTECH 2004 is less than a month away.

Even Better News: Reduced Hotel Rate

We have just noticed a printing error in the GENTECH program.

Fortunately, this error translates into lower costs for your GENTECH Conference stay. On page 2 of the Conference Registration Brochure, the daily rate for the Millennium Hotel is incorrectly stated as $132/night. The actual rate for GENTECH conference attendees is actually only $99/night. We apologize for this error -- but you can keep the extra $33. (Spend it in the Exhibit Hall!)

So, don't miss out on this opportunity. Register now while there is still space in the Hotel.

Here are the Particulars about the Conference:

NGS GENTECH 2004 will be in held in St. Louis on January 22-24.

Since 1993, GENTECH has been THE national conference for people interested in GENealogy and TECHnology. Now, as a new division of the National Genealogical Society, NGS GENTECH will sponsor conferences that continue to meet the needs of advanced users and those new to using technology in research.

Each year the conference has featured a panel of nationally known speakers who have addressed themselves to every aspect of the use of computer and Internet technology to support genealogical research - to meet the needs of advanced users as well as those just beginning to use technology in their research.

This year there will be a Librarians' Pre-Conference at NGS GENTECH on Thursday, January 22, 2004 which will feature talks by Cyndi Howells, Ruth Ann Hager and Matt Helm. Details of this special Pre-Conference are at: www.slcl.lib.mo.us/slcl/sc/gentech04/precon-schedule.htm.

 In addition to the Librarian's Pre-Conference, Thursday will feature two-hour tutorials on four important topics:
 * Building a Family Genealogy Web site
 * Mapping Workshop
 * Federal Web Sites
 * Digital Photography.

See the full NGS GENTECH 2004 program at: www.eshow2000.com/ngsgentech/register_now.cfm or at the St. Louis Genealogical Society website: www.stlgs.org/gentech2004.

If you have not attended a GENTECH conference, please consider making this your first. Our professional development depends upon finding and using the right tools to accomplish your clients' goals, and the sessions at this conference can help.

Remember, you can register on line at: www.eshow2000.com/ngsgentech/register_now.cfm

We look forward to seeing you in St. Louis in just a few weeks! NGS GENTECH 2004 promises to be a sellout and a highly successful conference.

Have all of you been getting these?

Is this being generated by our computers.

We have not had that problem on HeritageQuest, but when we have some of the free genealogy sites up, some days the popups are so bad they lock up our antiquated computers. We have an assortment of controls and security software, but we still have problems periodically.

Susan,
        Due to just this problem we've installed the Mozilla browser on our public computers and we run our Heritage Quest access through Mozilla. Mozilla has a built-in popup killer that you can turn on or off. Unfortunately many sites are written only for Internet Explorer. For example, at a recent US Census workshop we were told that the Census Bureau sites are not designed to be used on any other browser.

             However if your machines have both browsers and a site keeps locking up in IE due to popups, you can try Mozilla. This has enabled a number of patrons to use sites which were otherwise unusable.
             We don't have the money to install a commercial popup killer on almost 40 public computers. I know that Microsoft says the next release of IE will have the killer capability, but at this point Mozilla has beaten them to the punch.
              There is also a stripped down (browser only, no Composer) version of Mozilla, Firebird, that still includes the popup killer feature. I haven't tried it on a work computer yet, but a friend has used it for some time at home and I recently installed it at home and have had no problems. It's quicker to load and takes less space.

Dear List,
Possibly you might find the free version of PopUp Stopper of use for your libraries. I use this at home and find it 99.999% effective in stopping those pesty things from coming in.

You can view their webpage at www.panicware.com

They offer programs for sale (not that expensive), and also a freeware one that I downloaded. On their webpage you can read the values of each that they offer.

I've been using the [free] Google tool, available at the number of sites blocked, and alerts the user when a pop-up was attempted. It can also be easily disabled if desired.

Does anyone have a need for caddies for CD's? We just got rid of a computer that used to use these- for LDS Family Search, etc.- and now we have at least 100 we don't need. These are not jewel cases, but cases that are actually put into the computer to protect the CD's. Your comuter must have a caddy drive to use them.

They are free, but you will have to pay for shipping and they are fairly heavy. Any takers?
We don't want to take time sending out small batches, so only large requests, please.

Thanks and Happy New Year!

Mary,

No, Form 86 should not be used for this purpose. The records related to impressed seamen are not military records, but records of the State Department. For more information about impressed seamen records which have been microfilmed as M2025 and M1839, see our webpage, "Records About Impressed Seamen, 1793-1814" at <http://www.archives.gov/research_room/genealogy/military/impressed_seamen_1793_to_1814.html>.

(Please note: there are underscored spaces (but no NON-underscored) spaces in that webpage address - some mail programs seem to add NON-underscored spaces - so be sure to eliminate any NON-underscored spaces otherwise you'll get an error message). Otherwise, use Google with the search terms: nara impressed seamen -- to get to it as the "top" hit.

Both microfilms (M1839, "Miscellaneous Lists and Papers Regarding Impressed Seamen, 1796-1814" [1 roll], and M2025, "Registers of Applications for the Release of Impressed Seamen, 1793-1802, and Related Indexes" [1 roll]) are available for purchase directly from NARA. For information, see "How to Obtain Microfilm" at <http://www.archives.gov/publications/how_to_order_microfilm.html>.

M2025 is available from the LDS Family History Library to loan to patrons through local Family History Centers (see their online catalog at <http://www.familysearch.org>.

Your patron could send a letter to request a search to Modern Military and Civilian Records, National Archives at College Park, 8601 Adelphi Road, College Park, MD 20740-6001.
