Subject: [Genealib] What's New in RELIC (October 2011)

Message-ID: <ABEB22CCB70E4A4CB7424A72FA667C2704ACF86B@sudley1.pwc.ad>

WHAT'S NEW IN RELIC

October 2011

The Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center for Genealogy and Local History (RELIC), Prince William Public Library System, Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109. 703-792-4540 Email: relic2 at pwcgov.org <<mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org>> .

To read the latest lists of new materials available in RELIC click on http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/whats_new_in_relic.htm <http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/whats_new_in_relic.htm> .

UPDATED RELIC PUBLICATIONS ONLINE

We have recently uploaded new editions of the following RELIC publications. See them at http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/relic_pubs.htm <http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/relic_pubs.htm> . Each is a pathfinder to techniques, contacts and sources (manuscript, in-print, and online)

* Climbing Your Family Tree (RELIC, 2011). Answers to ten questions we are often asked about getting into genealogy.

* Roots in Prince William (RELIC, 2011). The guide to genealogical and historical research in Prince William County, Virginia, has grown from 12 to 19 pages.

ONLINE ORDERING OF FHL FILMS BEGINS SOON

The Family History Library in Salt Lake City has announced that online ordering of FHL microfilm will begin in our area later this month. The Family Search website www.familysearch.org/films <<http://www.familysearch.org/films>> will handle all orders and payments, and will deliver the film to whichever family history center you select. RELIC will continue to be a contracted family history center for the delivery and use of FHL films. RELIC staff will be happy to assist you with the process.

RELIC PROGRAMS

Here are our latest offerings. Funding for RELIC programs is provided by the Friends of Central and Bull Run Libraries. Sign language interpretation is available for Prince William Public Library programs if requested at least three weeks in advance. To be notified of upcoming programs and new resources in RELIC, visit http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/whats_new_in_relic.htm <http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/whats_new_in_relic.htm> and click on Subscribe. All these programs will take place at the community room at Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA. Most programs last about one hour. You may register for any of these programs at 703-792-4540 or relic2 at pwcgov.org <<mailto:relic2@pwcgov.org>>. For details see http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/relic_programs.htm <http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/relic_programs.htm>

October 13, 2 pm - An Introduction to RELIC, with Don Wilson (in cooperation with Lifelong Learning).

October 25, 7 pm - The New Family Search, with Karen Jensen (repeated December 8, 11 am).

November 6, 2 pm - The Beale Treasure, with Steven Matyas.

December 8, 7 pm - Finding Cousins through Family Tree DNA or 23 and Me, with J. J. "Jim" Logan (rescheduled from August 23).

"Genealogy Doctor": free counseling (contact us for an appointment).

AN INTRODUCTION TO RELIC

Presented by Don Wilson

The Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center (RELIC) is a treasure trove of resources for those researching their family histories, no matter where their families lived, and for those researching local Virginia history, or the history of your house. Department head Don Wilson will describe its holdings and services, Thursday, October 13, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in the Library's community room. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

NEW AT FAMILYSEARCH.ORG

Presented by Karen Jensen

With a new emphasis on original records and education, the latest version of FamilySearch.org is better than ever. Karen Jensen, assistant director of the Centreville Family History Center, will show you how to explore these new features including the new Library Catalog, the Research Wiki, free online classes, and the world's largest free collection of genealogical records.

The program will be held on Tuesday, October 25, at 7 p.m. in the library's community room. It will be repeated on Thursday, December 8, at 11 a.m. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

THE BEALE TREASURE STORY

Presented by Stephen M. Matyas, Ph.D.

In 1817, a party of 30 Virginians led by Thomas J. Beale determined to visit the great Western plains and enjoy themselves in hunting buffalo, grizzly bears, and such other game that the country would afford. After wintering in Santa Fe, gold was discovered about 300 miles to the north, and the enterprise quickly changed from hunting to mining. The gold was eventually brought back to Virginia and buried. The story is detailed in a small pamphlet published in Lynchburg in 1885 entitled "The Beale Papers, containing authentic statements regarding the treasure buried in 1819 and 1821, near Bufords, in Bedford County, Virginia, and which has never been recovered." Even more intriguing, the pamphlet contains three numerical ciphers, one of which (never decoded) purportedly describes the exact location of the treasure.

In a program at Bull Run Regional Library on Sunday, November 6, at 2 p.m., cryptologist, American Antiquarian Society member, and author Stephen M. Matyas, Ph.D., will tell the story of this treasure and those who have searched for it. His two books, Beale Treasure Story: The Hoax Theory Deflated, and Beale Treasure Story: New Insights are methodical investigations into everything that is known about the mysterious Beale affair.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

FINDING

COUSINS THROUGH

FAMILY TREE DNA

OR 23ANDME

Presented by J. J. "Jim" Logan

Learn how you can discover your cousins and common ancestors through groups employing the latest innovations in genetic DNA testing for ancestry, in a presentation by J.J. 'Jim' Logan. Dr. Logan is the group administrator for several DNA projects and a member of the Standards Committee of the International Society of Genetic Genealogists.

This program will be presented at Bull Run Regional Library on Thursday, December 8, at 7 p.m. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org. (It was postponed from an earlier date because of the Virginia earthquake.)

"Genealogy Doctor" Accepting Appointments for Research Help

Don Wilson, head of RELIC (the Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center for genealogy and local history at Bull Run Regional Library), sets aside time each month for free private sessions to mentor persons researching their family history. A thirty-minute session can be used to discuss and analyze an historical or genealogical problem that has stumped you.

Daytime and evening hours are possible. To set up an appointment, please call RELIC at 703-792-4540 or email relic2 at pwcgov.org. Bull Run Regional Library is located at 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA 20109.

Have a question about Prince William County history, places or families? Need guidance with your genealogical research? You may contact RELIC staff for help and advice at Ask RELIC <<http://www.pwcgov.org/default.aspx?topic=040034001840001757>> or by calling us at 703-792-4540. Hours, September-June (ET): Monday-Thursday 10am-9pm, Friday-Saturday 10am-5pm, Sunday noon-5pm.

Message-ID: <000001cc8394$e0282eb0$a0788c10$@rickard@monroe.lib.mi.us>

In the 1890s the G.A.R. collection biographical information from their members. That info was written up as a biography and published in volume two of "Presidents, soldiers and statesmen.", each volume two was different - containing the bios of the men from one county only.

Today a patron looked at our volume 2 for Lenawee County Michigan and did not find her gr-gr-grandfather. She said he did belong to the G.A.R. and had been a commander of a post and held other offices. She has a photo of him wearing his pin. He did not have a bio in our book. If he were in one, it would be in the one for our county.

Does anyone know if they had to pay to be included in those books? Because it was done in connection with the G.A.R. and I knew one person who was included that probably would not have been able to pay - I always thought all had been included, not just those who could pay. Does anyone know? These are not county histories, this was in conjunction with the Grand Army of the Republic.

Thank you.

Hi,

I am trying to write a proposal to my managers to purchase a new digital microfilm scanner for the Prairie History Room at Regina Public Library. My managers want some quantitative evidence from other libraries, archives and museums about the number of microfilm machines and the type of equipment that are available for their clients.

Please help me out by filling this quick online survey:

Was this a national GAR activity across the country? I only have records for three GAR posts in my collection, but none of them is biographical in nature. The closest thing we have is a compilation of "Personal War Sketches" from 1890.

Our local copy has the original Publishers' Announcement taped in the front. ?The "local edition" begins on p. 565 of Volume 2. ?If anybody has this book, be sure to check to see which county is covered by looking at the local biographies from page 565 on. ?Maybe this list could compile a listing of whether the coverage actually was nationwide. ?We have the one for Washington County, Ohio.

In Two Volumes,
Publishers' Announcement.
Presidents. Soldiers, Statesmen, Illustrated.
An Historical, Biographical and Military Work Unequaled in Importance, and Unexcelled
in Merit by any Book of the Nineteenth Century, etc., etc.

The price per volume was $4.50.
H.H. Hardesty & Co., Publishers.
New York, Toledo, Louisville and Chicago.
This publishers' announcement says 27th edition.

Was this a national GAR activity across the country? I only have records for three GAR posts in my collection, but none of them is biographical in nature. The closest thing we have is a compilation of "Personal War Sketches" from 1890. Karen Weston biographical information from their members. That info was written up as a biography and published in volume two of "Presidents, soldiers and statesmen??", each volume two was different ? containing the bios of the men from one county only. Today a patron looked at our volume 2 for Lenawee County Michigan and did not find her gr-gr-grandfather. She said he did belong to the G.A.R. and had been a commander of a post and held other offices. She has a photo of him wearing his pin.

He did not have a bio in our book. If he were in one, it would be in the one for our county. Does anyone know if they had to pay to be included in those books?
Because it was done in connection with the G.A.R. and I knew one person who was included that probably would not have been able to pay ? I always thought all had been included, not just those who could pay. Does anyone know? These are not county histories, this was in conjunction with the Grand Army of the Republic. Thank you.

I did a search in Connecticut's statewide catalog, which includes the collections of all our public libraries, state library, and state-funded colleges/universities, as well as a great many special library collections.

- The title (Presidents, Soldiers, Statesmen) brought no results.
- A general search for "Grand Army of the Republic" brought up several volumes that seem to be of the same type, but they were published by the Memorial Record Publishing Company, of Baltimore and Washington, rather than Hardesty & Co..
- This search also brought up G.A.R. rosters for various years (mostly in the collection of the Connecticut State Library), as well as items relating to various annual encampments.

I would surmise that there were a number of publishers that put out memorial volumes similar to Presidents, Soldiers, Statesmen, varying from region to region, or even state to state.

As to who would have been included, I have to think of the method used by publishers of modern-day alumni directories. Usually, the forms are distributed widely to all known alumni of the particular school, along with an order form to pre-order a copy. While the information from non-purchasers may be welcome, sending the info without an accompanying order may feel like a tacit admission that one cannot afford the book. So, some may just decline or neglect to send in their details.

Phyllis, your patron may be able to locate other rosters like those I found in Connecticut. A quick search (keyword, "Grand Army of the Republic") of the catalog of the Library of Michigan brought up quite a few rosters and other documents relating to the G.A.R.

Hello, all. I am new to the list and new to my position here in Wake County Public Libraries, Raleigh, NC.

We have quite a large number of periodicals that have accumulated over the years from gifts that are duplicates or subscription cancellations. If you are interested in supplementing or replenishing your periodical collections with items on the list attached, please email me back directly.

A few things to consider:
We will need mailing costs reimbursed.
Please request at least 5 items.
Our deadline is OCTOBER 31.

Thanks and we hope we can help you fill in.

Subject: [Genealib] Organizing Dead People in Ohio
Message-ID: <008a01cc89b9$6a425970$3ec70c50$@org>

In the spirit of that all important holiday, Halloween, we would like to help Ohio libraries organize their dead people. No, we're not talking zombies here, but obituaries!

For those of you in Ohio, read on.

Are you struggling in these hard economic times? Make your genealogical collection a source of revenue in the web-based Ohio Obituary Index, www.rbhayes.org/index, The Rutherford B. Hayes Presidential Center hosts this award-winning web site that you can join, along with 49 other Ohio Public Libraries. Once your obituary listings are online people will find them and either come to your library or order them. We are now partnered with Ancestry.com and Archives.com and the exposure to our data has increased exponentially because of those affiliations although our site will always remain free to view.

The Hayes Presidential Center will be demonstrating its Ohio Obituary Index at the Ohio Library Council's 2011 Convention and Expo in Toledo on October 26 and 27th <http://olc.org/expo.asp>. I will be there to greet old friends who are currently partners and encourage other libraries to join us in this web-based index of newspaper obituaries and other items, such as local history collections of clippings, wills and estates, funeral records, etc.

Why re-invent the wheel and tax your own too-busy technology department when we already have done the work, created a very user-friendly interface, and attracted millions of viewers? Started in 2000, the online Index currently receives almost 230,000 page views a month (over 2 million hits a month) and is cited as a valuable genealogical tool in books and referred to by over 300 other web sites. At this time, we have over 2,200,000 names in the database from Fremont to Marietta and citations to over 3 million newspaper sources. The Ohio Obituary Index received the Technology Excellence Award given by the New England Historic Genealogical Society.

For $1500, a public library or historical society can join the Hayes partnership, receive training on how to enter their data, and start inputting their names into the web-based system. The only other charge is an annual fee of $200 for website maintenance and quality control. If you have an existing database, it is possible for an additional fee to import those records into our system.

Check to see if your Library Director, other staff member or you will be attending the OLC 2011 Convention and Expo and stop by booth #216 to see the Ohio Obituary Index and the administrative side of the database in action and some Trick or Treat candy, but no zombies. If you have any questions before or after, please contact me at bhill at rbhayes.org or 800-998-7737.

Hello Everyone,

I would like to get more libraries to look at and consider linking to my website, and would appreciate any advice you could offer. It's not clear to me who, in the typical library organization is responsible for deciding what sites are linked to from their web site, and/or if there is a preferred way for legitimate requests to be made. Would I have more success if I snail-mailed requests (versus email)? My concern is that any requests I send out just get junked along with all the SPAM/junk requests libraries undoubtedly receive (I know I get dozens on a daily basis, and it's annoying). Of course, I'm also assuming (hoping) my website, being a general genealogy topic site with loads of original content, is the type of site a library would consider linking to. Or are libraries only interested in linking to local/regional types of sites?

Any guidance would be appreciated,
- illya

Hi Illya -
Speaking for my own library - we prefer directly addressed emails (most list contacts on the website) and information about why we should link. An offer to talk by phone also works. :-) Word of mouth referrals don't hurt either. :-)

Subject: [Genealib] Who Is Haunting My House?
Message-ID: <7898A79C279DB84281A9B3CEEDBA48F706A8B941@mail.DMCPL.local>

It is Halloween time once more! If anyone would like a copy of my handout "Who Is Haunting My House"? let me know off list. I will email it to you as a Word document. Feel free to customize it to your collection if you would like. I created this finding aid for my patrons after about the 20th time of being asked this question. It is a combination of my more commonly used handout "My House History" and the handout on "Finding Death Dates". It takes a few years before a librarian can answer this kind of question with a poker straight face. It is part of the practice involved in a reference interview.

Here is how it starts:

>>Surprisingly, this is not an uncommon question asked in the genealogy section.

To determine who died in your house, first you would have to figure out who live there, then when they died.

1. Start with the year of your house's construction, or take a guess if it is not known.

It is possible there has been more than one house at that location, but for now assume that it is the current house. Of course, the Native Americans were here first and most of their names are lost to history.

Resources to determine the year of house construction:

- a. City or suburban directories.
- b. <http://www.mcrealestate.org/> shows information on current taxes and the year that homes were constructed

One big challenge for folks like Illya or me is that public libraries rarely have direct contact information online. If you want to find the academic librarian responsible for history, it's very easy to find on the college library's website. If you want to find the public librarian who oversees genealogy resources, that information is, in most cases, very difficult to locate.

I looked at the Derry PL library site, and you are clearly an exception - and I applaud that - but in most cases, finding a relevant contact address at a public library is pretty tough.

Like Illya, I'd love to see libraries offer a link to my service. We offer unique, useful content for free, which individual genealogists could certainly put to use, either through the free or the premium services. And of course libraries themselves might want to subscribe. But a contact often comes across as a sales pitch, when that's not intended, so it's hard to figure out how to present the information. And the format is tricky, too - some people prefer email over phone calls, others prefer phone over email, but I won't know until after it's too late.

Hi Illya -
Speaking for my own library - we prefer directly addressed emails (most list contacts on the website) and information about why we should link. An offer to talk by phone also works. :-) Word of mouth referrals don't hurt either. :-)

Cost was $12,500 and it included the computer and monitor ($895). Ironically, the County only gave me 24 hours to order it in the last week of the previous budget year. I did not have a chance to really review it. The County told me I had to spend the money and receive the equipment before Sept 30. I did it and glad that we did.

Hi Folks,

Has anyone had any experience with MemoryLane.com (Classmates.com) Yearbook reprints? I would like to order some of their reprints of local high school yearbooks, but was worried about the quality of the binding since they are SOFTCovers.

I welcome your opinions on the matter.

These are most likely "Perfect bound" which as a book repair person I call these types of books a perfect disaster down the road. What I would suggest is order just one and see for yourself what the quality of them really are. If there is enough gutter space you can later guillotine the spine, punch them and put in a wire spiral bind, not ideal but usable that way.

Subject: [Genealib] Irish genealogy
Message-ID: <012c01cc8aba$29549160$7bfdb420$@net>

Hi Everybody, we are starting an Irish genealogy library in Phoenix, Arizona at the Irish Cultural Center across the street from the Phoenix Public Library and the Phoenix Art Museum on Central Ave. The library is under construction and should be finished by St. Patrick's Day. At this point, I am working on a list of books for our collection. Ultimately, the building could hold about 6,000 volumes. One of my first concerns is to decide on a classification system for this new collection. The Arizona State Library (about two miles away) has a modified Dewey system that I like very much. The State Library Genealogy Collection is primarily about U.S. genealogy and has some sections toward the end for foreign countries. Our Irish collection will concentrate on Ireland but the Irish in the America will be an important part. In my previous experience as a genealogy librarian, I remember that most of the work was determining where people's ancestors came from in Ireland. We want to also concentrate on the Irish who immigrated to Canada and then down into the U.S.

Any suggestions about a classification system would be appreciated. Any titles would also be appreciated. I have about 200 titles that could form a basic collection including periodicals. What are some of your favorites? Do you have any books about the Irish in your state? One of our problems is that a lot of the things we would like to have are out-of-print.

Sincerely,

Daniela Moneta

I would agree with Mara. Send it to 1.) the webmaster or 2.) the public relations person or 3.) the library director or 4.) the genealogy librarian (not necessarily in that order but find an appropriate person) but not to an email or IM reference question service or mass email to the entire staff.

Hello Everyone,

I would like to get more libraries to look at and consider linking to my website, and would appreciate any advice you could offer. It's not clear to me who, in the typical library organization is responsible for deciding what sites are linked to from their web site, and/or if there is a preferred way for legitimate requests to be made. Would I have more success if I snail-mailed requests (versus email)? My concern is that any requests I send out just get junked along with all the SPAM/junk requests libraries undoubtedly receive (I know I get dozens on a daily basis, and it's annoying). Of course, I'm also assuming (hoping) my website, being a general genealogy topic site with loads of original content, is the type of site a library would consider linking to. Or are libraries only interested in linking to local/regional types of sites?

Any guidance would be appreciated,

It completely varies with the library. Usually, in a larger (more than one person) public library, some one person has the authority to suggest what should be added. Depending on if their opinion carries any weight in their organization, that's the way things get added. The place that I just retired from does NOT have staff names and assignments listed anywhere on the web site, and even the ask-a-librarian emails pass through a varying cast of people who forward them. That whole situation is ad hoc. But that's another story.

The best way to get things on to a web site might be to let genealogy and historical societies know so that they can ask the library staff to add them. Like I started out by saying, it varies absolutely with the individuals and the library. Locally I know of several librarians who read this list, and might be interested in getting links. I suspect that is the case all over the country.

I am in the process of redesigning a Genealogy newsletter for a membership of about 250.

Excuse my inexperience, but is there a reason why new and renewed memberships are listed on the back pages of the quarterly newsletter?? In my case, they are currently published on page six of 8.? I was thinking of moving this list to page 3.? If I do this, am I breaking some cardinal rule of newsletter publishing?

I have been the newsletter for several organizations for several years. The groups that I work with like to have the membership form on the inside of the last page on the part that would be backed by the address portion of the newsletter. That way when they cut out the membership form to use, it does not destroy any of the articles. It also makes it easy for the membership chair to see who has renewed their memberships since the mailing label is on the back of the form they have returned.

We do not list new members info in any of the newsletters that I edit for privacy reasons. Sometimes names are given but that is all. Anyone interested can always contact me and I will contact the person in question. It is their choice about following up.

Daniela,
I would be interested in how you organize this new Phoenix collection of Irish resources, but I also wonder if the library would like a donation of a small collection of maps, cds and electronic files.

I have donated a number of items to the Irish Ancestral Research Association (tiara.ie - a recommended resource link) but still have some items I would like to find a home for.

I'd also like to know more about the Arizona Irish migrations patterns.

Best wishes in your continued good work!

Hi Sharon,

That's wonderful news that you have some items to donate. Since we don't have a building yet, you could send books to my home address (I live down the street from the Irish Cultural Center), my address is:

Daniela Moneta
2 West Georgia Ave., #5
Phoenix, AZ 85013

We don't have any letterhead stationery yet but I can send you an acknowledgement letter for tax purposes as soon as we get some.

The land where the library is being built is owned by the City of Phoenix. The Irish Cultural Center has been in operation for many years and has a good reputation in the community for programs. The building of the library has been privately funded but I am not sure what kind of budget we will have. Here is a video about the center <http://azirishlibrary.com/>. The part about the library starts at 4 mins., in case you don't want to see the whole thing. I believe that the Phoenix Public Library (across the street) will catalog our books. I have to research that but they did receive an LSTA grant several years ago to assist smaller community libraries in the city with their cataloging. Is there anyone on this list from the Phoenix Public Library? I want to get the cataloging system set up so we can control the call numbers and location of the collection throughout the library. I will definitely let you know what the cataloging system will be, Sharon. I have been a librarian for thirty years so selecting the right system to organize the collection is important to me.

About the Arizona Irish migration pattern, I don't know that there is a specific one. We have about 500,000 people with Irish heritage in Arizona. Arizona is a young state and celebrates its centennial next year. I think Phoenix is like many other cities that end up with a large population of Irish. Many people retire here and are interested in genealogy. Maricopa County has become a good place to do genealogical research. We have an excellent Genealogy Collection at the Arizona State Library, a few miles away, and an excellent Regional Family History Center in Mesa, Arizona about a half hour away.

Daniela

Message-ID: <CAKFuBN=m5cgRy9XF9Wqww_GYW3WwntDyEBRPsjci1hWy9Zkf2A@mail.gmail.com>

All recently I have been asked about how I select materials that are not specifically covered by our Genealogy Collection Development Policy such as general how to books, etc. Given many genealogical related materials lack reviews, I have found it difficult to completely explain how I choose materials. The reasoning "I chose it because a xyz larger library in my state chose it" or "because it looked like something that would be useful to patrons" don't really work. Does anyone have a collection development policy they would be willing to share off-list? I have a policy from ALA and one from Hancock County, Indiana, but would love to have other examples that I could pull from and point to when I'm writing up my selection criteria.

Just a reminder from your list administrator that those wanting a copy of Shawna's handout need to send their request off list (just as Shawna politely asked you to), and not to the entire list of 1100-plus subscribers to GENEALIB.

I think it is primarily at the end of the newsletter to allow for "last minute" updates and avoid having they layout skewed. Atleast that is why we do that.

I am in the process of redesigning a Genealogy newsletter for a membership of about 250.

Excuse my inexperience, but is there a reason why new and renewed memberships are listed on the back pages of the quarterly newsletter? In my case, they are currently published on page six of 8. I was thinking of moving this list to page 3. If I do this, am I breaking some cardinal rule of newsletter publishing?

Thank you for any input you might offer.

It is Halloween time once more! If anyone would like a copy of my handout "Who Is Haunting My House"? let me know off list. I will email it to you as a Word document. Feel free to customize it to your collection if you would like. I created this finding aid for my patrons after about the 20th time of being asked this question. It is a combination of my more commonly used handout "My House History" and the handout on "Finding Death Dates".

It takes a few years before a librarian can answer this kind of question with a poker straight face. It is part of the practice involved in a reference interview.

Here is how it starts:

>>Surprisingly, this is not an uncommon question asked in the genealogy section.

To determine who died in your house, first you would have to figure out who live there, then when they died.

1. Start with the year of your house's construction, or take a guess if it is not known.

It is possible there has been more than one house at that location, but for now assume that it is the current house. Of course, the Native Americans were here first and most of their names are lost to history.

I have really enjoyed the thread on "Who is Haunting My House?"

Here's my question to all of you -- does your library maintain a vertical file collection or anything similar that actually contains clippings, photos, records, etc. that would support a local patron walking in and asking such a question as that?

I worked for seven years as the Reference Librarian/Genealogy person for a local Kentucky county library and in those years I had numerous people who did come in and basically ask just such a question. We had many of the kinds of local genealogy/history resources that would fit the guidelines in the handout that was offered. However, we did not have any files or records on local houses or homes where "bad things happened." Do any of you have materials like that?

I used to hate watching "If Only Walls Could Talk" on HGTV, because every night someone had bought a house and in the process of moving in or renovating, they'd come across all of these objects, records, etc. Then, nearly every single time, they would supposedly go to their local public library and the reference librarian would have files that told the whole story. Of course, you know what kind of traffic that show generated for our library, too.

So, just wondering and would be very interested in knowing if anyone actually maintains such a reference collection.

We have a large file of clippings on supposed haunted buildings in town. Whitewater was the home of the Morris Pratt Spritualist Institute. This is a very popular topic for student papers and the campus newspaper always does an article about Haunted Whitewater around Halloween. Among the stories is the isosocles triangle that connects the three cemeteries in town, witches dancing around the old water tower, the locked book in the Library that kills people if opened, and tunnels underneath houses in town. This year the Library is hosting a panel on hauntings in the town and county next week. Supposedly, someone is making an independent film about hauntings here.

Subject: [Genealib] Who Is Haunting My House? Practical Collections Question

I have really enjoyed the thread on "Who is Haunting My House?"

Here's my question to all of you -- does your library maintain a vertical file collection or anything similar that actually contains clippings, photos, records, etc. that would support a local patron walking in and asking such a question as that?

I worked for seven years as the Reference Librarian/Genealogy person for a local Kentucky county library and in those years I had numerous people who did come in and basically ask just such a question. We had many of the kinds of local genealogy/history resources that would fit the guidelines in the handout that was offered. However, we did not have any files or records on local houses or homes where "bad things happened." Do any of you have materials like that?

I used to hate watching "If Only Walls Could Talk" on HGTV, because every night someone had bought a house and in the process of moving in or renovating, they'd come across all of these objects, records, etc. Then, nearly every single time, they would supposedly go to their local public library and the reference librarian would have files that told the whole story. Of course, you know what kind of traffic that show generated for our library, too.

So, just wondering and would be very interested in knowing if anyone actually maintains such a reference collection.

We Have two Vertical Files related to this topic.(1)Witchcraft(2)Haunted places in Connecticut. Occasionally a patron will research their house because they believe it is haunted.

We keep vertical files on certain buildings and places in town that are supposed to be haunted. There have been a couple of books written about hauntings, ghost stories, and urban legends for this area so an article makes it into the newspaper every so often and when it does we try to clip it and save it. It is part of our local history and folklore. Most people though want to know about houses they've just moved into and we don't really have anything much for them.

Subject: [Genealib] NEW BOOKS ON GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN NOBLE GENEALOGY.
Message-ID: <988749F2ABA4492EB7B12BBD49BFA54B@EndUserPC>

Three new volumes have now been published as part of the genealogical series, THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE:

The Sovereign Principalities of LIECHTENSTEIN and MONACO

A full genealogy of the two surviving sovereign principalities of Europe. Liechtenstein's full descent from 1726, which encompasses numerous noble families from Austria, Hungary, Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia. Monaco, and its Grimaldi dynasty from 1758, including the Urach and Massy families. 307 pages

?P. Arnold, 2011 ISBN 978-0-9569100-3-5

Following the Royal Wedding of H.R.H. Prince Georg Friedrich, the Head of the House, they have also published a new edition of the two-volume

The HOHENZOLLERN Dynasty of PRUSSIA

The Descendants of Friedrich Wilhelm I

Covering up to fourteen generations from 1688, these volumes cover the Prussian

Kings and German Emperors and all descendants to the present day, who include all the current European Monarchs. The vast set of Family Trees extends over two volumes 620 pages. 2nd edition.

?P. Arnold, 2011 ISBN 978-0-9569100-2-8

Together with the volumes published last year, The German Kingdoms of BAVARIA and SAXONY and The German Kingdoms of W?RTTEMBERG and HANOVER these five books provide an extensive genealogy of the nobilities of Germany, Austria, the Czech lands and Hungary.

THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE

This series of books, published in England, provides an extraordinarily wide ranging genealogy of noble families across Europe, including descendants who live in the United States and Canada:

THE ROYAL HOUSES OF EUROPE publishes 30 volumes, covering all the leading European Royal Dynasties and their descendants. They provide a full royal genealogy laid out in inter-connecting royal family trees of the Royal Houses of Europe. The books cover the reigning monarchies of Europe, the great Imperial Dynasties and the former monarchies of Europe. They include the British Royal House, now the House of Windsor, descended from Queen Victoria, and the British dynasties of Stuart, Hanover and Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. The dynasties of Hohenzollern, Romanov, Habsburg, Bonaparte and Bourbon have separate books on each, together with the Monarchies of Scandinavia, the Benelux, Iberia, Italy and the Balkans, and the former German Kingdoms. In all cases the full descent is shown, extending to related noble and commoner families, including in the U.S.A.

Earlier this year they published a new volume in the British royal genealogical series:

Following the Royal Wedding of H.R.H. Prince William Duke of Cambridge and Catherine Middleton, a brand-new updated,

GREAT BRITAIN Volume 1

The Descendants of H.M. Queen Victoria

Queen Victoria, the British Monarch who dominated the nineteenth century, has left an ever expanding family of descendants, including most European continental royal families, now numbering more than 1500 including spouses, and stretching to eight generations. This Master Volume extends to 214 pages. 5th Edition.

? P. Arnold, 2011 ISBN 978-0-9569100-0-4

They have also recently published a very thorough set of 9 volumes, which spreads the net further into the remoter parts of these family networks:

The STUART Dynasty of GREAT BRITAIN

The Descendants of the Stuart Kings.

This series, covering all the descendants of King James I (except for the descendants of King George I who are covered by the six-volume GREAT BRITAIN series), descending from 1566 through seventeen generations to the present day - 444 years! These include some interesting U.S. families.

Due to the vast size of the work, it has been split into nine-volumes. The Stuart legitimist line's descent is contained in its entirety in Volume 1. The remaining volumes have been divided into six substantial lines of descent. Volume 2 covers the Bourbons of France and Italy and the Habsburgs, together with a massive array of German, Austrian and Italian noble houses. Volume 3 covers the House of Salm, the Belgian Houses of Ligne and Cro?, and many Belgian, French, German, Italian and Spanish noble houses. It is so vast that it is in turn split into A and B volumes. Volume 4 covers the entire descent of the Belgian Ducal House of Ursel, including a numerous set of French and Belgian noble houses. Due to its size, it is also split into two. Volume 5 covers the Spanish and Portuguese royal descendants together with a galaxy of their own noble houses. Volume 6, uniquely, covers a range of British noble families, descended from the Marquesses of Lothian. Volume 7 covers the Degenfeld-Schonburg descendants, with a wide range of German and Austrian mediatised houses, and related German and Hungarian noble houses.

ALL THE BOOKS INCLUDE FAMILIES NOW RESIDENT IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

See their website for full details of each individual book (press on book title for description).: <http://www.theroyalhousesofeurope.co.uk>.

They are essential tools for Genealogists, particularly in researching their European ancestry. They are supplied to libraries in the U.S, and Canada, and also in the United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand and many European countries. They are also supplied to European royal families, academic libraries, genealogists and the media.

It is Halloween time once more!? If anyone would like a copy of my handout "Who Is Haunting My House"?? let me know off list.? I will email it to you as a Word document.? Feel free to customize it to your collection if you would like.? I created this finding aid for my patrons after about the 20th time of being asked this question.? It is a combination of my more commonly used handout "My House History" and the handout on "Finding Death Dates".?

It takes a few years before a librarian can answer this kind of question with a poker straight face.? It is part of the practice involved in a reference interview.

Here is how it starts:

>>Surprisingly, this is not an uncommon question asked in the genealogy section.

To determine who died in your house, first you would have to figure out who live there, then when they died.?

1.? Start with the year of your house?s construction, or take a guess if it is not known.

It is possible there has been more than one house at that location, but for now assume that it is the current house.? Of course, the Native Americans were here first and most of their names are lost to history.

Yes, we do have a file folder on local haunted houses that we have to keep behind the desk, so patrons have to ask for it. I hate to do this, however, if I don't, teens will make off with it, usually within 24 hours after leaving it out. The file consists of local news articles. The most famous house in town was the scene of a Halloween triple murder and suicide that took place in the 1930s. That house is still pretty creepy with reappearing bloodstains on the floorboards and a terrible draft, even on hot summer nights.

VR is Vital Records, of course, vol. 1, page 132, and I'll hazard a guess that n.m.m.n. stands for "no mother's maiden name" given. I can imagine making that note to myself to forestall rechecking later.

VR is Vital Records, of course, vol. 1, page 132, and I'll hazard a guess that n.m.m.n. stands for "no mother's maiden name" given. I can imagine making that note to myself to forestall rechecking later.

Does anyone know what the abbreviation n.m.m.n. means when found in a Mayflower Society application following a footnoted reference? For example, "VR 1:132 (n.m.m.n.)"

Fairfax County Public Library has had a clipping file on area ghosts since before I arrived here in 1981. We have added to it over the years and we are blessed in Virginia with a large series of published ghost stories from around the state so we can usually answer people's questions. Our most enduring question is about the "Bunny Man" and my former historian put together this info which now resides on our web site:
<http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/library/branches/vr/bunny/>

Every new crop of high school students from around the county would come in and ask about the Bunny Man every October and again in the spring. Our original clipping file was depleted at some point and that is why Brian put together this story, which is kind of an urban legend around here.

Hello all

My first post.

Here is a beginners guide to useful resources for researching house histories in the five boroughs of New York City, compiled by myself, that might be useful.

I have really enjoyed the thread on "Who is Haunting My House?"

Here's my question to all of you -- does your library maintain a vertical file collection or anything similar that actually contains clippings, photos, records, etc. that would support a local patron walking in and asking such a question as that?

I worked for seven years as the Reference Librarian/Genealogy person for a local Kentucky county library and in those years I had numerous people who did come in and basically ask just such a question. We had many of the kinds of local genealogy/history resources that would fit the guidelines in the handout that was offered. However, we did not have any files or records on local houses or homes where "bad things happened." Do any of you have materials like that?

I used to hate watching "If Only Walls Could Talk" on HGTV, because every night someone had bought a house and in the process of moving in or renovating, they'd come across all of these objects, records, etc. Then, nearly every single time, they would supposedly go to their local public library and the reference librarian would have files that told the whole story. Of course, you know what kind of traffic that show generated for our library, too.

So, just wondering and would be very interested in knowing if anyone actually maintains such a reference collection.

Mara,

You are correct in assuming it means "no mother's maiden name".
More recent approved Mayflower applications are very complete in indicating what documentation and information contained that is on file.

We keep vertical files on houses and buildings as articles are published or found in local publications. The general house files include pictures through the years and we have been fortunate that for some of the more historic neighborhoods there have been projects to document the buildings and we have received copies of these photos. Sometimes these articles refer to ghosts, etc. We do have a specific file on ghosts in addition to books published on the subject that reference places in our city/county.

About half of our house/building researchers during the year are looking for proof of paranormal events. Typically these are also the ones who get discouraged quickly when we can't just pull up the information about their specific house or building. The other researchers are trying to find out the actual history of their house/building in order to do restoration work or because they are curious.

Don,
Our library maintains vertical files and I have two volunteers that work exclusively on them.
Our branch is now a history research branch as of 20 years ago when our county built a new modern library about a mile from town. Nothing at our branch circulates. We also have archive boxes where we put anything that is not a clipping, magazine article or book.

Some special collections are: mining, genealogy, scrap books of local organizations, Cornish Studies, original county records beginning in 1856, newspapers beginning in 1851-current.

Two years ago our county deleted the history branch from the library budget and was going to close the history branch down. At that time it was only open one day a week. Our Friends of Nevada County Libraries came to the rescue and took over the management. We have no paid staff and all of are volunteers. Currently we are open three days a week and will open 4 days a week next spring.

I don't know how long this email list has been in existence; I sure wish it had been available when I was a reference librarian 2000-07. You folks are an amazing wealth of knowledge, experience, and insights. I enjoy just reading the inputs, even though much of it is not in what I do today.

Thanks to all of you who replied to my query -- I got some great ideas for how my own local county public library can use some of your great inputs.

Hi Becky,

Most popular places for first-time visitors are NYC Municipal Archives, NYPL, and NARA. All are genealogist-friendly.

For a summary of repositories and records, my 3-part Guide to New York City Research might be helpful to you. It's posted on the New England Historic Genealogical Society's website. URLs follow.

Part 1: Vital Records, Property Records, and Estate Records

<http://www.americanancestors.org/nyc-research-guide-pt1/>

Part 2: Naturalization and Immigration Records, Court Records, Religious Records, and City Directories

<http://49.americanancestors.org/nyc-research-guide-pt2/>

Part 3: Censuses, Cemetery Records, Military Records, Newspapers, and Libraries

<http://49.americanancestors.org/nyc-research-guide-pt3/>

There have been some changes since publication. For instance, both the City Clerk's Office and the City Register's Office in Manhattan have moved. Be sure to check current hours wherever you want to go. While many repositories allow you instant access to materials, some require that you order certain items in advance or make an appointment.

NYC repositories can keep you very, very busy!

Have fun and welcome to our little town!

Becky,

If applicable, you might consider the American Jewish Historical Society - <http://www.ajhs.org/collections/genealogy.cfm>. I've never been, but it's on my list, after the NYPL.

Hi Becky,

As my colleague Philip already mentioned, you must visit the Milstein Division of U.S. History, Local History & Genealogy of the New York Public Library (NYPL) in the beautiful landmark building on 5th Ave. & 42nd St. We have good hours<<http://www.nypl.org/locations/schwarzman/milstein-division-us-history-local-history-genealogy>>and we're free!

I suggest you start here and then move on to the other great repositories for the records not available here. We have many indexes to records, some of which are not easily available anyplace else. For example, the indexes to birth after 1909 and deaths after 1948, are at the NYC Dept. of Health but are not open to the public; only authorized agents. At the library, we have indexes to NYC births and deaths up to 1982.

Some other key resources you'll find here:

- Indexes to NYC births (late 19th century-1982), deaths (late 19th century-1982) and marriages (1869-1937), many also available through the Italian Genealogical Group's fantastic website<<http://www.italiangen.org/vitalreclist.stm>>
- Coroner's inquisitions, New York, NY, 1823-1898 and Index to Divorces, Annulments, & Separations in New York County, 1784-1910.
- Comprehensive collection of city directories not only for New York but for the entire country. We also have a great historical telephone directory collection.
- All surviving New York State census records on microfilm for all counties including finding aids. Also New Jersey State census records.
- 1890 New York City ?Police? Census (a great substitute to the 1890 Federal census)
- The best collection of New York City historical newspapers (some online and many only on microfilm).
- Many books, both family histories and genealogical compilations by location, and other materials searchable through our online Catalog<<http://catalog.nypl.org/search>> including everything that came from the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society Library in 2008.
- NYC land and property records between 1654 and 1857, indexes and the actual records.
- 18th and 19th century wills for many counties in New York State.
- more <<http://www.nypl.org/locations/tid/36/node/62586>>

Not to mention a friendly and helpful staff that not only know about our collection, but can advise you on the other collections around the city.

I hope we can be of assistance to you on your visit to New York.

Best wishes,
Maira

Thanks, Drew, for apprising us of how long this list has been going. I cannot even remember now how I came upon it and knew it was just down my alley of interests.

I would hasten to mention that my first time to meet Drew Smith was at the Knoxville FGS meeting in August 2011. Drew gave one of his talks on the variety of ways you can find digital books that can be a huge help in your historical and genealogical research. The presentation really opened my eyes to Google Books and a variety of sites and places you can look for research materials such as digitized family histories. In my present position as the editor of Kentucky Ancestors here at KHS and my own longtime research in Civil War histories, I have wanted to get my hands on numerous out-of-print and unavailable books. Now I have a PDF copy of many of those books at my fingertips and have been able to enjoy a goldmine of references that I'd never have been able to access in more conventional ways.

I'm sure I was probably one of the last folks on this list to have made those discoveries, but as I say, "better late than never."

We already have the Virginia Regimental Histories Series. I am considering purchasing the Confederate State Roster for Virginia which "have been extracted from the comprehensive 16-volume Broadfoot set, The Roster of Confederate Soldiers 1861-1865, transcribed from the 535 microfilm reels of National Archives M253, Consolidated Index to Compiled Service Records of Confederate Soldiers".

Do you think this is a good purchase or too much of a duplication? I do have enough money in this year's budget for it, but it wouldn't leave much for the rest of the year. I'd appreciate any input.

Melissa,

We do not have the Virginia Regimental Histories Series, so I am not sure what it entails, nor what you want to cover as far as records. Do you want to have resources just covering Virginia or the whole Confederacy?

We have both the Union and Confederate sets from Broadfoot and have found them very useful because we have so many people living and researching in this area whose ancestors were from other states.

Both of the Broadfoot sets are indices. They list the name, state, unit, and rank, nothing else. For us, it is a great lead for someone who had an ancestor who fought for a unit in a state other than Ohio.

If your budget is tight, then you might focus on Virginia and utilize the website <http://www.itd.nps.gov/cwss/>, which is supposed to be from the same reels of microfilm, but I have found gaps, so they are not identical, but they are very similar.

I hope this helps,
Patrick

LIBRARY SERVICES TECHNOLOGY ACT:

INPUT SOUGHT FROM LIBRARY USERS

The Prince William Public Library System receives funding through the Library of Virginia (LVA) as part of the Library Services Technology Act (LSTA). The federal funds that the LVA receives from provisions of this Act may be in jeopardy.

On Tuesday, November 8, a representative from the Library of Virginia will be holding four sessions at Prince William County libraries to gather information from library patrons on how they have been impacted by the funds their library systems receive from the Library of Virginia. PWPLS uses the LVA funding for purchasing materials, for Summer Quest children's programs, and for Early Literacy Centers. In addition, LVA funds "Find It Virginia" which provides many electronic resources including Heritage Quest Online to all libraries in Virginia, including PWPLS.

LSTA funding also helps LVA provide the extensive online Digital Collections (Virginia Memory) which have become so important for Virginia historical research.

Anyone who is willing to briefly share their personal experiences with the services provided by LSTA is encouraged to attend one of the sessions on November 8. It is planned to be very low key. There will be one public session at Chinn Park Library in the morning (at 11 a.m.), and two sessions at Bull Run Library in the afternoon (at 2 and 4 p.m.) We ask that you let us know soon which session you plan to attend so we can approximate a headcount for each session. You may RSVP to the RELIC staff, at 703-792-4540 or relic2 at pwcgov.org <mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org> . Thanks.

RELIC PROGRAMS

Here are our latest offerings. Funding for RELIC programs is provided by the Friends of Central and Bull Run Libraries. Sign language interpretation is available for Prince William Public Library programs if requested at least three weeks in advance. To be notified of upcoming programs and new resources in RELIC, visit http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/whats_new_in_relic.htm <http://www.pwcgov.org/library/relic/whats_new_in_relic.htm> and click on Subscribe. All these programs will take place at the community room at Bull Run Regional Library, 8051 Ashton Avenue, Manassas, VA. Most programs last about one hour. You may register for any of these programs at 703-792-4540 or relic2 at pwcgov.org <mailto:relic2 at pwcgov.org> . THE BEALE TREASURE STORY

Presented by Stephen M. Matyas, Ph.D.

Could there be a fabulous treasure in gold out in the Virginia Blue Ridge waiting for you to dig it up? With a secret code telling you where it is? Our November program is intended to whet your interest in the Beale Treasure.

In 1817, a party of 30 Virginians led by Thomas J. Beale visited the great Western plains and enjoyed themselves hunting buffalo, grizzly bears, and other game. After wintering in Santa Fe, gold was discovered about 300 miles to the north, and the enterprise quickly changed from hunting to mining. The gold was eventually brought back to Virginia and buried. Beale and his companions apparently never returned for their treasure, but a cryptic message was left behind to tantalize generations of treasure hunters.

In a program at Bull Run Regional Library on Sunday, November 6, at 2 p.m., cryptologist, American Antiquarian Society member, and author Stephen M. Matyas, Ph.D., will tell the story of this treasure and those who have searched for it. His two books, Beale Treasure Story: The Hoax Theory Deflated, and Beale Treasure Story: New Insights are methodical investigations into everything that is known about the mysterious Beale affair.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

NEW AT FAMILYSEARCH.ORG

Presented by Karen Jensen

With a new emphasis on original records and education, the latest version of FamilySearch.org is better than ever. Karen Jensen, assistant director of the Centreville Family History Center, will show you how to explore these new features including the new Library Catalog, the Research Wiki, free online classes, and the world's largest free collection of genealogical records.

The program will be held on Thursday, December 8, at 11 a.m. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

FINDING COUSINS THROUGH

FAMILY TREE DNA OR 23ANDME

Presented by J. J. "Jim" Logan

Learn how you can discover your cousins and common ancestors through groups employing the latest innovations in genetic DNA testing for ancestry, in a presentation by J.J. 'Jim' Logan. Dr. Logan is the group administrator for several DNA projects and a member of the Standards Committee of the International Society of Genetic Genealogists.

This program will be presented at Bull Run Regional Library on Thursday, December 8, at 7 p.m. To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org. (It was postponed from an earlier date because of the Virginia earthquake.)

20 THINGS YOU CAN DO

TO PRESERVE YOUR FAMILY HISTORY NOW

Presented by Tish Como

Even if you don't have the time or inclination to spend a lot of time researching or recording your family's history, there are some simple steps you can take to make sure that vital information, records, stories, and mementos are available for the next generations. RELIC's Tish Como will describe 20 easy ways to preserve your family's heritage in a program at Bull Run Regional Library on Thursday, January 12, at 11 a.m.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

GENEALOGY 101

Presented by Beverly Veness

Those curious about their family history have an opportunity to learn about methods, strategies and resources for tracing their roots. The hour-long program, conducted by Beverly Veness of the RELIC staff, is scheduled for Tuesday, January 24, 2012, at 7 p.m. This program, "Genealogy 101," will highlight the numerous free genealogical resources available at RELIC and will explore basic techniques for tracking ancestors.

To reserve a seat for this free program, contact RELIC at (703) 792-4540 or at relic2 at pwcgov.org.

"Genealogy Doctor" Accepting Appointments for Research Help

Don Wilson, head of RELIC (the Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center for genealogy and local history at Bull Run Regional Library), sets aside time each month for free private sessions to mentor persons researching their family history. A thirty-minute session can be used to discuss and analyze an historical or genealogical problem that has stumped you.
