Nature's Miracle Orphans: This observational documentary series meets animals with extraordinary survival stories, and follows the people determined to help them get back to a life in the wild, including Moyo, the baby elephant separated from his mother when he was swept down a river. Airs Thursdays, 10 p.m., beginning May 4.

American Experience “The Great War” tells the complex story of World War I through the voices of nurses, journalists, aviators and the American troops known as “doughboys.” The series explores the experiences of those whose participation in the war has been largely forgotten. Airs Sundays, 9 p.m., beginning May 14.

Flying to the Ends of the Earth: Former Royal Marine Arthur Williams did not let the car crash that left him paralyzed deter his passion for flying. Williams uses a small prop plane to get access to some of the planet’s most remote places in this three-part series. Airs Wednesdays, 9 p.m., beginning May 31.
