The four year member of the Georgia Board of Education said our young men are in the same armed forces training camps with whites, they fight and some die on the same battlefields for the same cause, but when those who survive return to the United States they still have to fight for a place to live.

"Our children are our most precious assets, and we must find ways to educate them to live together," Dr. Middleton asserted. Young people now look back on the past generations and laugh. They are amazed at the way the people eat along and disagree with each other.

Dr. Middleton said unless we solve the problem by educating our youth, we will have more bombings of airplanes and bombing of buildings.

"Most nukes over 50 don't realize the world is growing up in different times." Dr. Middleton quoted. He said he grew up before the static got out of radio.

"When we (the older generation) came along there was plenty of time to grow up—that's all gone now. Information rapidly moves in front of our children now and they become wise and grow up almost overnight." He mentioned that one of his three daughters had been to Europe, Japan and Mexico before he even left the country.

Dr. Middleton, married to the former Melissa Tyson, was amazed at the new Tampa International Airport, calling the structure a "magnificent piece of work."

The environment was spoke on as another of our main concerns during this decade. "It will be difficult to eliminate the sources of pollution but something must be done," he said.

The educator, who holds LLD degrees from Allen University, Fisk College and Bethune-Cookman College, closed saying that the decade is "a meaningful future. I doubt if the north could ever show us the way. The north has been handicapped for years and this will make us tackle the job with more efficiency, dedication and determination."

He received a standing ovation from the crowd.

Musical interludes for the occasion were rendered by a choral group from Kathleen High School, Lakeland, of which Jack Johnson is the instructor.

Other program participants included Rev. W. R. Gordon, rector of First Baptist Church of College Hill; Richard F. Pride, director of the Upward Bound program at USF, who gave the occasion. The guests were preceded by the Frontier's President C. Bizsize Andrews, U. S. Air Force Chief Warrant Officer Kelley R. Golden introduced the yokeemen, and their wives were introduced by Mrs. J. R. Andrews, President of the Lily White Councils.

Awards were presented by Delano E. Stewart, attorney-at-law to several persons who have marked achievements in the past year. These tokens were given to William W. Andrews, MD; Freddie A. Smith, MD, both fellows of the American College of Surgeons; Elisha J. Dixon, recently promoted to the rank of lieutenant in the Tampa Police Department; Elvis L. Martinez, Hillsborough County State Representative; Edna E. Roell, Lt. Col., Ret. USAAF and Executive Secretary of the Hillsborough County Civil Service Board; E. J. Salcines, Hillsborough County Solicitor; James W. Silver, Ph.D., Professor of History at University of South Florida, and James Jerome Williams, Head Football Coach of Florida A&M University.

Dr. John Albert Middleton, president of Allen University, addressed an audience of 400 students and guests of the Frontier at its 12th annual banquet, talking to the group on the "Concerns of the Seventies."

Dr. Middleton, introduced by Ass. County Solicitor, Alty George Edgecombe, and tagged as a religious leader, an educator and a fighter for human rights, has been president of the college since 1965. He attended Allen University, Howard University and Drew Theological and holds a master's degree in Theology.

He was graduated from Allen University in the Seventies.

Asst. County Solicitor, Atty. Elisha J. Dixon, introduced the yokeemen, and their wives were introduced by Mrs. J. R. Andrews, President of the Lily White Councils.

Goldie Thompson

Goldie Thompson climbed the ladder of success from the bottom rung to the top. On his way up he did not let adversities affect his positive outlook. Top of the list was a radio and television career, and in time he found himself as one of the nation's top radio gospel personalities.

Goldie was one of the first black radio announcers in the south, beginning his career in the late 1940s. He came from a poor family and found it necessary to work in order to help. But he went on to raise his own large family and establish himself as one of the nation's top radio gospel personalities.

Goldie was one of the imaginative architects that drew the plan for the structural framework of blacks remaining with their music—gospel music. He was a specialist in getting teens off the street and back to gospel singing by making it an honor to be a member of his famed Teenagers Gospel group.

In what proved to be a final tribute to Goldie several weeks ago, thousands attended his last gospel songfest at the armory, and contributed hundreds of dollars towards his mammoth hospital bill.

The Tampa Bay area and nation lost a great friend. As Abe Lincoln once said, a tree is better measured when it is down.

ROSE CRUTCHFIELD

We are delighted to pass on to Mrs. Gwen Goodwin the nice comments received from Forum members about the advice she gave on growing vegetables and the picture of her home. Today we have some weight-watchers' ideas from the desk of Jeannie Morehead. One I think you might like to add to the banana recipe section of your file is the recipe for Banana Fritts.

According to the release, Weight Watchers are enjoying some treats they couldn't have before under their new weight-reducing program. One banana a week is now "legal." Banana Fritts served with a maple butter-like spread make for good eating but the dish is non-fattening if prepared the way Watchers way. Try it, you'll like it!

BANANA FrittS

1 banana peeled.
1 egg.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/2 teaspoon maple flavor.
2 tablespoons brown sugar.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Artificial sweetener to equal 1 sugar.

Slice bananas lengthwise and then in half. Get bowl big enough to hold batter. Combine remaining ingredients in blender and blend until smooth. Four table spoons of batter at a time add to a pan previously heated at 375 degrees. Bake at 375 until the bottom is golden brown. Makes 3 servings.

Maple Butter-Like Spread

2 tablespoons imitation (or replacement) maple syrup.
2 tablespoons brown sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Good News For Poinsettia

GAINESVILLE — Red poinsettias are usually associated with the Christmas season, but two University of Florida ornamental horticulturists have succeeded in making the plant bloom year-round and have experimented with a new white variety that could prove to be as popular as the traditional Easter lily.

In addition to the new variety, the researchers are now growing pink and variegated pink poinsettias at the University as a result of a breeding program.

Mrs. W. L. Joiner and Thomas J. Sheehan, professors with the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, say the research could mean a whole new year-round market for the poinsettia, thus ending the plant's isolation as a Christmas tree flower only. At the same time, the Easter lily could be used on a year-round basis as a cut flower or potted plant.

They pointed out that research has shown poinsettias can be made to last as much as three times longer in the home by using various growth regulating chemicals when the plants are grown in commercial nurseries. Normally, a poinsettia will last under home conditions for about two weeks, but those treated with a growth regulator will stay in bloom for as long as two months.

He added that the growth regulator, a chemical called "cyro," will increase plant height, make stems stronger, produce greener leaves, and increase resistance to drought and heat.

Dr. Sheehan said poinsettia flowers are developed periodically controlled, meaning that the flowers develop on a certain amount of light and darkness. He said a poinsettia in half hour of continuous darkness each night will produce blooms.

Study Shows Blacks Not Treated As Equals in Vietnam

EDWARDELL, Ind. - Black soldiers in Vietnam are not treated on an equal footing with their white counterparts, ex-GIs polled as part of the Veterans World Project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville believe.

The project report says blacks have played an important role in U.S. history, yet have not received the fair treatment they should and need. Many who are discharged (disdained) from the military service when they try to exercise their rights of manhood.

The study indicates black soldiers implying "I'm not a nigger but a human being." As authority, the report says.

"The only sure way the officers feel secure and seem capable to deal with this as a problem is to gun down the black GI by means of a dishonest discharge," the report states. "The officers tend to label the black GI as a trouble maker and tend to stamp him as a bad example."

The report also says blacks comprise a percentage of combat losses larger than their percentage of total service personnel. They receive lesser care at military hospitals, and fewer employers make distinctions in their hiring practices of various types of such discharged. Generally, they are found to be had conduct and dishonorable.

Black veterans in military personnel management, because of racial bias, will accept bad paper. They compete equally to change the image of being "bad paper" discharges are a lifetime, according to the institute's Maive, and few employers make distinctions in their hiring practices of various types of such discharged. Generally, they are found to be had conduct and dishonorable.

What has divided the nation on school segregation is more than just a sharp disagreement on the merits, but confusion as to what the issue really is. Public discussion has not served to illuminate these issues any more than the complex matter of overcoming in a few years what has taken 100 years to produce. The long term of desegregated schools has been noted and pointed to the question of whether one is for or against busing.

In the long run, the President has recognized the need to address the imminent issues seriously, to the point where no one can say that he is in favor of his legislation. Further, he has sought to quell the fear that his legislation will "amount to" desegregation. Busing will mark an end to the effort to achieve equal rights and even in the advanced, it will be a change made in the 18 years since the Supreme Court declared "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

Despite the President's assurances, we fear that this legislation will not have that result. It focuses on the wrong problem and will do the wrong thing, and therefore will not make rational debate over desegregation and quality education much easier.

What you really say to these veterans when they ask you "too busy" is "stay in your place and afford your inferior schools."

This will, in reality, cost us an entire generation of badly educated minority children, denied their constitutional rights to equal educational opportunity.

No amount of talk about new solutions in the effort to desegrate the schools, is a reversal to the unconstitutional and bankrupt policy of "separate but equal" will long deceive minority parents or even minority students. This is not to say, however, that busing is the only means of achieving desegregation. In many towns and cities, housing is not necessary and desegregation can be achieved within the confines of neighborhood school attendance.
The progress can be made through the use of such techniques as re-drawing school attendance lines, educational schools, and creating central schools.

In many cases these techniques, no matter how skillfully and conscientiously applied, cannot achieve desegregation without busing.

This proposed legislation is regressive on several counts:

* It seeks to alter the substantive standards by which the illegality of school desegregation could or should be judged and found wanting.

* It seeks to hinder the capacity of the courts to provide relief to those whose constitutional right to a desegregated education has been violated.

* It seeks to curb the executive branch as an active participant in the effort to desegrate the schools.

Further, if enacted, it would mark a major governmental reversion to the doctrine and a major governmental reversion to the doctrine and a major governmental reversion to the doctrine of over coming in a few years what has taken 100 years to produce.

The report says that the President has sought to quiet the fear that his legislation will "amount to" desegregation. Busing will mark an end to the effort to achieve equal rights and even in the advanced, it will be a change made in the 18 years since the Supreme Court declared "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

Popular, sweet, cute, and not too tall kids. Remember when we were in the same grade? We shared a lot of the same words that can be put together to describe our Student In The Know. "What?" as she is called by her friends is a mom ber of the 9th homeroom in which Mr. J. Beals is sponsor. She can be found in and out of her classroom and around 6:30 Beach or around the luminous Court Apartments. While沧-walks, I found out many interesting things. What I did not know, such as her favorite hobbies, shopping choices, and even her favorites movies were printed, printed. printed. printed, printed, printed...contact Rhonda 936-9530 or Beverly 877-7038 for a school tour.

-SFORTANIC FLOODS-
By William O. Bethel

In recent outlaws Muhammad Ali has looked anything but razor sharp. In his bout with a German named Bini in Sweden he soared around the ring like a fat man on stilts. The I.B.H.C. assignment of Frazier against Ali was by no means a mistake. In my opinion neither Bini nor Foster could have done anything at all with Ali a few years ago. What is wrong with "The Greatest" is that he is not what he used to be. He is not the champion of the world in title trim. He is just a shadow of his former self.

The Joe Frazier Thing

Actualy what happened to Ali in the Joe Frazier fight was that he was not the champion. He didn't know how to fight in against a fighter similar to The Rock of Gibraltar with a chin of granite. I was in the third round at Curtis Irma's Hall the night both fights were held and what happened to Ali and what happened to him from a psychological viewpoint. In the fifth round Ali hit Frazier with everything he had but the Kitchen sink. Frazier after being driven from pillar to post, only avoided it by a split second and was staggered by a hard right hand to the face. Frazier then began feeling the effects of everything but the Kitchen sink. Frazier after being driven from pillar to post, staggered and was staggering. He then won the fight psychologically by stepping back and saying that Ali didn't want to fight. It is a well known fact that Ali doesn't want to fight. Ali didn't go back to his corner at the bell a confused and disheartened fighter. He seemed to be thinking to himself, "What am I going to do?" Ali knew that he had hit Frazier with the best he had to offer and "Smoking Joe" didn't. Frazier didn't know what to do but to resort to tomfoolery and tricks of the trade. I felt that the only way to win the title from Ali was to avoid getting hit for 15 rounds and tomfoolery. When the bell rings Frazier comes out smoking as he says that he is going to smoke all the way. He knows he has no finesse. He knows he is not the classic boxer type. He knows he is not cute nor fancy. He does know that he can take more punishment than a black gnat under a microscope. He has been able to avoid getting hit with it at least once and once is usually all it needs.

Muhammad Speaks

Muhammad Ali says he knows exactly what to do for Frazier in his next actual combat. He says that he can avoid the left hook bomb at anything like 220 lbs. Muhammad Ali knows that he can't possibly stand up to Frazier unless Frazier also knows that he has to stay on his toes all the time and fight his own fight instead of trying to plug it out with Frazier. If you are a Muhammad Ali fan that knows that psychology will get him nowhere and if he fights Frazier again, Muhammad Ali is a good man and he wants the title back. Some one is going to suffer even more the next time around.

Quick Quips:

Remember I told you that Jimmy Smith would have the Plant City High basketball team ready in time. The Planters under Coach Smith came on strong at the end of the season so look out next time around. You can't keep a winner down.

Peter Flaherty, former NFL Africa against the ABA will have something to be done. The boys are going to take the money as long as its available and I don't blame them.

Big Israel Lang is in town for a short visit with his folks. Lang is the former Miami High, Louisville, Tennessee State, Philadelphia Eagles, Los Angeles Rams fullback. Lang is now living in California.

Kingfish are off the gulf beaches and are being taken mostly with light tackle. If you ever catch one it will be an experience you will never forget.

OLIVA'S FATHER — FINALLY SEES TONY PLAY

ORLANDO—Pedro Oliva had to wait a long time to see his son Tony play in a major league uniform. As he put it after the eventful game, "I wondered if I would ever see him play before I had to go back to Cuba."

"I wondered," his son said. Tony, the leading active hitter in baseball with an average of .331, underwent surgery on his right knee last September and it bothered him during spring training. He ran with a limp and couldn't play until March 21.

That was a road game, however, and his 45-year-old father didn't see him until the following day at Tiger Field. He sat in the grandstand, wearing a red flannel shirt and a black hat.

Tony joined his brother Luis in the first inning, he watched intently.

Tony lined out then and in the next inning grounded into a force play. But later he hit a two-run home run over the right-field fence. His father didn't clap or cheer, but just watched and beamed.

Later in the inning when Harlem Killebrew hit a two-run homer to increase Minnesota's lead to 4-0, Oliva rushed to the White Sox at 5-4, Pedro Oliva applauded and yelled.

"Maybe I can use a ball club for because he didn't think it would be a home run, it was so close to the feel pole," Tony said.

"He's my father explained. "You hit one out with one on base. Killebrew hit one with a man on. It was more important.

Then the father and son laughed.

City Four-Ball Tourney Set For Rogers Park

The Tampa Men's Open Four-Ball tournament will be played at the Rogers Park Golf Course with Willie Black, professional at the course, announced Sunday.

The 56-hole medal pinya tournament will offer merchandise prizes to the winners.

Black said registration fee is $50 per team and that all beans should be mailed to the Tampa Men's Golf Course, 5001 N. Nebraska Ave., Tampa, 33611.

All-round work in recruiting golf clubs should do so in advance. Black said, to expedite tee-off times. Also, the golfers should mark and ready to go. To read cards in advance and should call the course at 261-2072.

Over 100 Turn Out For Southern's Spring Grid Practice

By FRED HEARNS

BATON ROUGE, La.—New Head Coach Charlie Bates opened spring football drills here Monday with 128 members of the squad, according to Sid. Thursday, April 6, with over 100 hopefuls in uniform and several dependencies on the sideline.

Surgery Set For Foster

LOS ANGELES—Heavyweight contender Max Foster, who lost a 13-round decision to Muhammad Ali in Tokyo last week, will undergo surgery to remove a piece of cartilage from his left elbow, his manager said Wednesday.

"It's an injury," Foster explained. "I lost 10 rounds before the All fight but didn't want or put up or have any postponement."
Basketball Banter

As I mentioned before, we would elaborate a bit on the junior division of the professional basketball league, the American Basketball Association.

Frankly, I will have to admit the reason for this is that I really don’t know as much about the American Basketball Association as I do about the National Basketball Association (NBA). I think this is a natural phenomenon and not at all related to basketball fans.

The National Basketball Association has been around longer and is generally more well-known and better loved than the American Basketball Association. The only reason the American Basketball Association has crept into existence is because there were some really good professional basketball players coming out of college. In the last five years, the National Basketball Association (NBA) couldn’t possibly absorb them all.

Down through the past few years the ABA has grown and grown, not unlike the American Football League in football. The ABA has grown to the point where it has become a Super Bowl Basketball League. It is apparent that either a Super or a merger of the two leagues will come.

The ABA has been a good thing for basketball if for no other reason than to give so many great players a chance to play professional ball that were left out by the NBA. With most eyes are on the play-offs in the senior circuit the boys in the junior circuits are having it too. As of now here is how they stand:

In the Eastern Division the New York Nets are leading the highly favored Kentucky Colonels 2-0 in their best-of-seven series. The Virginia Squires, who helped the Colonels into the Final Four, are playing the Chattanooga Tornadoes in the best-of-five series.

In the Western Division, the Utah Stars, defending ABA champions, are leading the Dallas Chaparrals 3 games to none. The Indiana Pacers now lead the Los Angeles Lakers 3 games to one.

My personal predictions are that Kentucky will have to take New York in the Eastern Division. Once in the Western Division, Utah will eventually wipe out Dallas. Indiana will have a hard go of it, but will knock off Denver.

Meanwhile over in the senior circuit, the Los Angeles Lakers have shucked the Chicago Bulls 4-0 and are waiting as almost for sure showdown with the Milwaukee Bucks, who are leading Golden State 3-1 in the other half of the Western Conference play-offs.

In the Eastern Division play-offs of the other teams the Baltimore Bullets and New York Knicks are tied at two games each, and surging-slowing the Atlanta Hawks are playing right with the Boston Celtics at two games each.

It seems quite possible that the championship game for the NBA will be played in the Western Conference play-off finals. It is almost a certainty that both the Los Angeles Lakers and the Milwaukee Bucks will battle it out again in another of those classic battlers and this one will be for all the money.

Here comes another Will The Stall and Lew "Kareem Abdul Jabbar" Alcindor war and I wouldn’t miss it for the world. It doesn’t seem likely that any teams in the Eastern Conference can beat either the Lakers or the Bucks.

The New York Knicks would be the only team with much of a chance and they are tied with the Baltimore Bullets at this point.

DAVID BRENT RECEIVES CAR, $1-MILLION, PEACE OF MIND

JACKSONVILLE — David Brent is back in town sporting a long, black Lincoln Continental, a $1,000 diamond ring with the initials "L.B.," and the other finer things that go with a millionaire basketball player.

The Lincoln has a long silver chain draped over the rear-view mirror with a round medalion on the end which says "Peace." Brent appears to have found peace of mind after ending months of speculation over whether he would give up his last two years of eligibility at Jacksonville University to sign a pro contract.

"I couldn’t wait," explained the 6-foot Brent. "What if the two leagues merge next year? Then they would have the bargaining power and not me."

Brent, only 19, said he was surprised at the $1.1-million contract he received from the American Basketball Association Memphis Pros after a disappointing season in which he was severely hampered by a broken bone in his leg.

Told his agent had quoted the count at $1.1-million over the next five years with $250,000 de­ ferred for the first two years, plus a $200,000 bonus and a car, Brent, said the figures are exactly right.

Brent called the figures "an absolute steal" for every team including the Pirates, Huskies and Nuggets. Brent is back in town的原因ing thing about the contract is that he is now able to provide for his family.

"Nobody really knows the sit­uation my family is in," he said. "My mother lives with my grandfather and grandmother and two children. They’re liv­ing on welfare (in St. Louis) and that’s the reason they had to come first.

"Coach (Tom) Widin added: "I understand the situation and I’m very, very grateful for that."

Brent said he sent his mother and grandmother $1,000 each for Easter and he gave his grandmother the orange GTO with the "Judge" written on the side that he was driving before he got the Lincoln.

"I am sure nothing will ever come up like jumping leagues like some of the players have," he added. "My contract is safe."

Brent said the only thing he regretted was not being able "to give all I could" for Jack­ sonville University because of the broken leg he suffered in the second game of the past season.

Brent said he is eager to face the top professional centers such as George Mikan and Artis Gilmore, now with the Kentucky Colonels.

"When you’re a professional, you want to play against the best and I think Artis is the best . . . right up there with Lew and Kareem and (Willie) Chamberlain. Artis helped me a lot at JU and I feel for Artis like a big brother."

"However, I don’t think I’m expected to compete on the same level with Artis right away," he continued.

Brent said he realized being compared to Gilmore when he came to Jacksonville as a fresh­ man and Gilmore was a senior.

"Now, I consider it a compli­ment," he said. Brent was told to report to Memphis to train for the past two years. "I liked that," he said. "That’s the reason I came to Jacksonville. JU was on top, but had just lost Artis and needed a big man to stay on top. That’s one of the reasons I like Mem­ phis. They need me.

"I know there’s a big adjust­ment from college to pro ball, but there was also a big ad­justment from high school to college. It may take a year to get adjusted to my college career, but I have confi­dence I can make that adjust­ment."

"Apparently Memphis does, too."
TAMPA'S NIGHT BEAT

With the performance of a live audience, on television, or cutting a record RALPH LAMAR comes over with a voice as vibrant as it is gentle. With a range not often equaled, there is a special quality to his singing that reaches out to each person listening to him. He can cut through the accompanying rendition of the old hard blues--then switch over to a romantic balladry. This performance is always increasing and more often than not moves the audience to a well deserves standing ovation. The magnetic "charmirs" of RALPH LAMAR. His singing is only equaled by his superb personality. Yours truly had the pleasure of observing this magnificent performer at Doc Castellan's Hideaway Lounge. What a thrill! Although this record was released on a small independent label, it did raise the hands of a lot of entertainers who gave Ralph a little more respect to expect him. HCC Cage Team Signs Two Tampans

The Hillsborough Community College Hawkins signed the first two players for the 1972-73 season last week. James Cross, 6-4 player of Late High, and Lovers Thomas, 6-6, of Plant, both signed basketball scholarships.

The signing occurred at the Student Union building of the college with the parents of both players present.

Coach Charles White said he was very pleased to have both young men join the team, and expects them to play key roles in the success of the 1972-73 season.

Cross was an all-western conference selection this year was Le- to's best rebounder and set a school record of 36 points in one game last season.

Thomas was also selected in the all-conference team and had a 15 point per game scoring average at Plant.

Black Educator Named to New University Post In Miami

MIAMI—A Randall Tiggitt has been named director of the Special Opportunities Office in the Division of University Services and Continuing Education at Florida International University in Miami. The $9,332 grant was awarded to the university to determine the feasibility of establishing a community college in the Miami area.

Formerly the assistant director for Mod1 City Coordination in Dade County, Tiggitt was awarded a certificate for completion of a course in evaluation in the Model Cities program. From 1962-72, Tiggitt was a public school teacher in Cleveland, Georgia. In 1957 he began his career in social work as a probation officer in the juvenile court of the State of Georgia. During 1966, he was a project director of the Seven Hills Neighborhood Cooperative Council in Savannah. From 1965-66, he was public school teacher in Savannah. The Tiggitt family is to be joined by the Board of Directors of the Model Cities program in 1968 and by the assistant director for the Community Action Organization.

His professional affiliations include the N.A.A.C.P. and the National Association of Social Workers, Greater Miami Urban League, and the Carver Branch of the N.C.A.A.C.P.

He holds a B.S. from Florida Memorial College and M.S. from the Atlanta University School of Social Work.

FUNERAL NOTICES

HUNDRED SPOWELL'S DEATH

NEW YORK — The mourners—called themselves old friends, members of the congregation or "just neighbors"—attended Powell's funeral on Saturday as they waited in Harlem's Abyssinian Baptist Church to see their last respects to Adam Clark Powell, Jr. Powell had been a member of the congregation for 15 years.

Several thousand people formed the procession that passed silent before his casket. Powell's coffin was surrounded by four solid wreaths the body of which was carried on a sled for 300 yards. The three long and three short problems were lighted with the help of a black jay. Powell's death was reported.

"When he used to come through this door, I would shake his hand," said Charles "Doc" Powell. "He was an usher at the church for more than a decade.

Many people brought their children to Adam Powell's home when they were young, he felt. The young people brought the coffin for a job.

An African music store near the church used an outdoor loudspeaker to broadcast sonatas spirituals. Most of the mourners said they hoped to return to the church for the funeral service that will precede Powell's eulogy. By his request, Powell's ashes will be scattered over his Caribbean retreat on the Island of Simbii.

The gathering at the church was so large that police had to close the block to traffic for the afternoon.

Dozens of policemen, most of them black, stood on the church and then manned the barricades which controlled the crowds.

In accordance with a directive by Mayor Lindsay, flags in Harlem playgrounds and stop school buildings flew at half staff.

Some stores remained closed for the funeral. The service for the one department store stayed one hour after the funeral service would not be held on Sunday.

Rev. Goldie Thompson
Dies After Lengthy Illness

Rev. Goldie Thompson, known as the Gospel voice of the Bay area, died at 10 p.m. Monday night in the Bayfront Medical Hospital in St. Petersburg after being admitted a week ago suffering from his second stroke within a year.

The first attack was in early March of 1971 while delivering a sermon at a Large church. Goldie was confined to the hospital from March 7 to July 7 of last year.

Rev. Thompson was well-known for his promotion of gospel programs. Over the years he sponsored programs featuring the nation's most well-known gospel personalities. A long time disc jockey for radio station WRMP Goldie, 67, was also a promoter of baseball games in Tampa and in the late 40's was hailed as one of the best umpires for the Florida State Negro League.

A free-lance minister, Rev. Thompson promoted programs in Tampa and St. Petersburg with his own Singing Teenagers performing.

He is survived by a devoted wife, Elizabeth; three daughters Frances, Aline, and Goldine Mare; a son, Goldie, Jr., and six grandchildren.

Creal Funeral Home will announce plans for final rites.
