CME Bishop Visits Sentinel Plant

W. C. Johnson, first black to be nominated to run for the Dean's Chairmanship of the Hillsborough County School System, was elected to the post last week, capturing an overwhelming number of votes.

He will assume the new position, previously held by whites, at the beginning of the 1972-'73 school term, and will serve throughout the year.

Johnson did not know the exact number of votes cast for him, but "from the number of congratulatory calls I received, I would say at least three-fourths of the county's whites voted for me," he said earlier this week.

The Seffner resident has been in the teaching and coaching profession for 11 years.

He has been active in community affairs, serving as a member of the Hillsborough County School Board.

Johnson is a graduate of Florida A&M University, where he earned a degree in education.

'Black Intellect' Course Refused

STANFORD, Calif. — Dr. William Shockley Monday was refused authority to teach a course at Stanford University on his theory that blacks are less intelligent than whites.

Lincoln E. Moses, dean of graduate studies, said he refused the course proposed by the Nobel Prize-winning physicist because of doubts concerning Shockley's objectivity and expertise in genetics.

Shockley, 52, said he interpolated Moses' decision as demonstrating "that the illusion of flat human quality... is no center to the thinking of the graduate school administration as to exclude a sincere search for truth."

Shockley's theories have stirred protests among chiropractors and geneticists and on college campuses, including Stanford.

Legal and Psychiatric Concepts

There are tremendous differences between legal and psychiatric concepts of insanity. The law has taken it upon itself to define insanity. Without wishing to reflect in any way upon the intelligence and ability that has gone into the making of laws, it must be remembered that, from the standpoint of psychiatry, they have made our laws by guesswork.

A trained psychiatrist would give a more inclusive definition of psychosis without using the expressions "between right and wrong" and "irresistible impulse," which, to him, are meaningless. To the psychiatrist, psychosis is a state in which a patient involuntarily commits all sorts of acts, lacking lack of adaptation and broken adjustment. The problem of right and wrong and that of irresistible impulse may be included, but this is not at all necessary.

In practice, law has but one term — insanity to cover mental abnormalities. The law attacks the particular person virtually disregarding the criminal. Psychiatry approaches the crime by way of the criminal. It attacks not the crime, but the criminal behind the crime. The law emphasizes intent, largely disregarding causation, while the psychiatrist looks upon intent merely as the surface expression of underlying motives. In criminal law, as just the deed is regarded as more important than the doer, causation is considered more important than motivation.

Cautions must be given to factors external to the individual. We speak of the causative effect of physical, economic, and related factors and crime. Yet, on the other hand, refers chiefly to personal psychological mainstays in human behavior. External factors give us to close as to who committed a crime. In the same community under apparently identical social conditions becomes a habitual criminal while the other develops into an upright citizen. Only a study of their inner lives could reveal the true reasons for their differing behavior and help us to understand the meaning of crime for the criminal and the community. Even in a close-knit family like yours and mine, all our kids are not alike. They are not all the same way. Be it a question of causation, principal in law that motive is not an essential ingredient in any crime, though it may be for prove any motive, yet even proof of a good motive, will prevent conviction.

Next week, we'll discuss "Legal Insanity." See You later.

A Boycott Center

Announcement by Mrs. Colette McAdams, President of the Boycott Center is welcome news.

It is good that the boycott center for black newspapers sponsored by the Institute For Nonviolent Social Change which is coordinated through the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center, headed by Mrs. King. The center is "most powerful, effective and democratic of nonviolent weapon more should be done by the hands of trained people who believe in the teachings of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr."

It has been tried before. Several black publishers on the West Coast handed publisher and printing an "honor roll" of big businesses who provided jobs and advertised in their media. Another roll was printed noting the big businesses who had not provided in: racial jobs for blacks, and who had refused to advertise in media catering to blacks. In a year's time, they were noted in the black media and many of the businesses were forced to comply or lose black customers.

We must admit that several of the recently black newspapers in Florida have conducted their own campaigns with "threats" to the "way, and eventually such tactics will hurt black media and printers with proven circulations. Mrs. King is correct when she says boycotts are national. These require high level organization and knowledge if they are to be successful.

Politics and economic power must be used together if black people are to have any chance of success. This is just a start in organizing, and the industry seeking a fair share must be organized and work together to improve the lot of blacks through the boycott center.

U.S. Ok's Aid for Minority Contractors

CHICAGO — The Nixon administration has taken first agreement with a national contractors organization to combat racial discrimination in the construction industry.

Under the new agreement, the Labor Department will provide $58,000 in federal funds to the National Association of Minority Contractors, inc., to aid it in 2,500 members in quality training programs.

The federal funds are available under the Job Opportunities in the Construction Sector (JOBS). In the past these funds have been used extensively in large corporations willing to open their doors to blacks. Also, the funds will be used to train blacks and other minorities excluded from the labor market for lack of skills.

Two Black Firms Get $25 Million In Insurance Business

ARMONK, N.Y. — Two black firms, Golden State's Life Insurance Company, Los Angeles, and North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, Durham, should recognize this roll and act accordingly.

The Sentinel urges financial support of the Mrs. King's boycott center.

Tax deductible contributions may be sent to the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center, 671 Beckwith St., SW, Atlanta, Ga. 30314.

Both Parties Need Our Votes

Every black voter or prospective voter should be watching closely the fight for his ballot. The year the several million votes we cast can determine who will be the Democratic or Republican nominee and which candidate in November will be the President of the United States.

Senator Hubert Humphrey and George McGovern are battling openly for the black vote. Humphrey would not have won the popular vote in Ohio without our votes. He would not have received the necessary black votes in Florida and Pennsylvania without these votes.

In the showdown, New York and California primaries, the black vote will be crucial to Humphrey and McGovern. But that is not all. President Nixon is not sure what segregationist George Wallace of Alabama may end up doing. If President Nixon can win Florida and California, he will win the black votes he has lost before. For that reason, he has his big-name appointees out beating the buses.

Meetings are being held everywhere. The favorite tactics are being rolled out. Black aides are being permitted to speak out against Mr. Nixon's policies and things like busing. Major fundraising events are being held for the President in Washington so he can drop in and say hello to large crowds of blacks, as he did when his top side, Robert Brown, was honored several months ago.

Our votes can do a lot of good this year and we had better understand this and make them count.

Poverty Pocket

By BOB GILDER
CAA Executive Director

Howard Harris is the perfect example of a man who has a sincere and dedicated desire to use his abilities and intelligence for the total benefit of our society, so that those who inherit it will find it a better place to live. Although the self-styled, dedicated Executive Director of the Tampa Housing Authority (THA) was the responsibility of running the huge and complex business of housing poor people in Tampa, he still finds time to give of himself to Tampa's senior citizens, its youth, its civic organizations and to bring about total integration in our society. He is a man who believes it is our system to bring about social change," regardless as to what the matter is we are talking about fair housing, education or jobs.

Forty-two years ago he came to Tampa as a high school teacher. Since that time, he has been actively involved in his work for 13 years. He left Tampa during the war years with his family to live in Boston and returned in 1966 to become a project manager for the THA. For the past 20 years, he has worked diligently in civic, social, racial and professional organizations and has become one of Tampa's largest and most important businesses. For the past three years he has been the man who stays in charge of the workings of the THA which furnishes housing to 4,474 low-income families (approximately 14,400 people). The THA staff members who work under the guidance of Mr. Harris to implement THA policies consider him the "Big Brother" to young boys who come from fatherless homes. In addition to serving Deser Center broth to young boys each week, Harris is a member of the Boys and Girls Club and the SE Union for Boys and Girls.

Several nationally known specialists will participate in the seminar, which will participate as leaders and employment and training to blacks and other minorities excluded from the job market for lack of skills.

Two Black Firms Get $25 Million In Insurance Business

ARMONK, N.Y. — Two black firms, Golden State Life Insurance Company, Los Angeles, and North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, Durham, have their talents to play a major role in the lives of public housing residents.

This is not surprising, therefore, that Mr. Harris' interests which include making sure that the not so young play a vital role in the movement both on and off the job.

"The THA houses more than a million people each year, including elderly, and if I do my job at all effectively, I am concerned about all my residents... more the elderly, because if we lose the elderly because in effect they have no other village, "Mr. Harris, recently disclosed. His genuine concern for the elderly residents of the city is always in mind as he is currently working to help the elderly residents with the most need. In fact, the mayor says there has been a "-Thus, we are doing an injustice to our elderly people to continue moving the smaller black newspapers in forced to comply or lose black customers, especially national customers.

Corporate executives must be used together if black businesses and advertising for the struggling black media, should be noted on a roll as the black press on the West Coast. Moreover blacks should, have this roll and act accordingly.

Democratic Push For More Minority Jobs At Miami Beach

MIAMI — The Democratic Party will initiate a full-scale campaign during the next month to improve employment opportunities for the black and other minority groups in Miami Beach.

Convention messenger Richard Murphy said Friday several prominent black leaders including state Representative Gwen Cherry and Andrew Mine, the party’s national director of minority affairs, will meet with city business leaders this week to try to lift “the local apathy towards hiring of blacks.”

The arrangements committee, which concluded its two-day meeting Friday, stepped into the matter by passing a resolution expressing its dissatisfaction with existing employment practices in Miam i Beach.

“We are definitely unhappy with the local apathy displayed by the city and many hotels in failing to hire minorities, primarily blacks, in reasonable numbers,” Murphy declared.

“These businesses are making money from the community and must take steps to employ blacks.”

Murphy admitted several firms, including Andy Frank Security Company, have fulfilled the Democratic National Committee’s goals for hiring blacks, but “overall we are working in isolated conditions, especially in the hotels.”

The party is disillusioned with city efforts to upgrade black employment, Murphy said, and will move in the organization to “not take these steps to employ blacks.”

JUDI HAMPTON

It takes just a few minutes of conversation with 20 year-old Judi Hampton to see how such a young person became a consumer affairs representative for Mobil Oil Company. Judi is in Tampa for the final days of a 30 city tour for the oil company talking with consumers through television and radio, as well as through organizations on energy and how to save it. She will depart Saturday.

Her extensive traveling is mainly concentrated on the east coast while the other areas are handled by other representatives. For the consumer, Judi, as she is called by her mother, "Jackrabbit" starts will overfeed driving. "She adds, "When stopping for more than a minute or so turn off your engine. Even a minute's idle uses more fuel than restarting."

Judi is the daughter of St. Louis native and dancer, Chestnut, who has given birth to a widespread background. She does not drive. She does most of the cooking because of the nine children in the house, Mrs. Brim said that there are too many disturbances among the children, and the parents get involved rather than resolve the problems.

Included two sets of twins. One set was stillborn, and the other seven lived to be a week old. There are seven at home ranging from age three to fifteen. The older children, Mrs. Peterson, 20, Ross Lee Wallace, 14, of Tampa, and John Jr., 10, Lake Butler, are married. A three-year-old son, John Jr., has polio. At six weeks old, a daughter, Dorothy Jean, had a touch of polio. All other children are in good health, though, Mrs. Brim has a weak heart and is on welfare and gets commodity foods when she can get a neighbor to take her for them. She does not drive.

With the grocery store about once a week, sometimes twice a week, she has practiced there for a year.

Since she joined the firm in 1969, Judi has handled a community sponsored program designed to help young musicians in deprived urban areas, was heavily involved in a Mobil to help cities in solid waste disposal and served as a special advisor on this subject for former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes.

As young as she is, Judi has a widespread background. She is a graduate of Columbia University and began her career as a community organizer for the Congress On Racial Equality (CORE) in St. Louis. She has also taught school there, coordinated voter registration drives and served as a community center director and organizer for local agriculture elections. In 1965 she became a program director in New York Mayor John Lindsay's Task Force. In 1967 she was named a program director in the city's Human Resources Administration.

Before she began traveling in her profession, Judi found time to keep up her talent as a modern dancer, studying under Loni, a well-known instructor in jazz dance, and Martha Graham, an innovator in modern dance. She is also working towards a black belt in judo.

Judi is the daughter of St. Louis surpren Henry R. Hampton, who has practiced there for 40 years. Judi was accompanied on the tour by Jean Farrell, press relations representative for Mobil.

Mrs. Brim, fourth from left, poses with her son, Robert James, 15; Henry Bruce, 9; Shelby Louise, 11; and Dorothy Jean, 14.

Mrs. Brim in Tampa for the next several weeks to help young musicians in deprived urban areas. She is a graduate of Columbia University and serves as an advisor to the community center and organizer for local agriculture elections.

The children get assistance with their reading from a group of students in the community and others who need help.

The Brims live in a two bedroom, frame house, with which Mrs. Brim does most of the cooking because the girls don't cook enough for the family. Mrs. Brim said that she is accustomed to cooking large quantities of food because of the nine children in her family.

The smooth tone of saxophones and the three sets of twin speakers will be featured Sunday at 3 at Springhill M.B. Church, of which Rev. James Scantling is pastor. Choir No. 1 will be host. The welcome address will be given by Miss Charlie Mae Woods. The public is invited.

Basketball Banter

Well its all over including the shocking: The Los Angeles Lakers have proved to one and all that they are the masters in the National Basketball Association. After a stunning first game loss the Lakers with Wilt The Stilt in the driver's seat, proceeded to maulhandle the New York Knickerbockers in four straight. Despite fines play by Goodrich, McMillan and Jerry West, Wilt Chamberlain was the difference. It is true that Kareem Jabbar has more offensive finesse than Wilt, but when it comes down to brute strength, no man that ever played he game can come close to Chamberlain.

Brute strength is what Wilt uses to get his thing done. When the very temperamental Wilt decided he really wants to do something on the basketball court, there is very little anyone can do about it. When Wilt wants a rebound he gets it, when Wilt wants a basket, he gets the basket with one of his patented dunk shots. Was be into anyone trying to go up with him. If they grab his arms, they get a free ride up.

There has been a lot of speculation as to what would have happened had the Knicks' Willis Reed been able to play. For sure if Reed had been able to play things would have been different.

Ali Wants Too Much Says Joe

' NEW YORK— Joe Frasier was an inconceivable figure in pinstriped slacks, pink and blue checked jacket and black boots, a $20,000 diamond ring glistening from the little finger of his left hand.

That's his bread-and-butter hand—his hooking hand—and bread and butter were on his mind.

" Clay kept saying he wants $6 million to fight me again—but last night wasn't made sense," the heavy-weight champion said as he discussed prospects of a return fight with Muhammad Ali from leather sofa's on the 24th floor of a New York office building.

"If he wants $6 million, what does he think I need to get—$11 million? He don't dictate the terms. Remember, I'm champion. I'm the man who rolls the pins for the next fight."

In such a position, Frasier was bound to be generous.

"I'll fight Clay for $3.5 million," he said, still refusing to refer to Ali by his Muslim name. "I don't care what they pay him—$5 million, $6 million. I just want a chance to get him again. And for me—$3.5 million is a size figure. That's a lot of bread."

Frazier's manager, Yank Dorfman, said he had agreed to the purse.

"There's no way to make the fight this year," Dorfman said.

"I can't fight in June. I've got my fight scheduled. Next year maybe. We're not going to demand the bigger part of the purse. We'll be happy with $3.5 million."

Browns Select
Alva Tabor

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Browns this week named the first black coach in the history of the National Football League club.

Owner Art Modell said at a news conference that Alva Tabor, former head football coach at Southern University, had been hired as an assistant coach.

Tabor will coach the specialty units, which in the past have been directed by various members of the coaching staff.

Hannie Green, former Browns' running back, was the only previous black coach with the club. He served on a part-time basis several years ago after suffering a knee injury which ended his playing career.

Monty "Bills" Everett, manager of the Dodgers, is asking all players to meet with him at the 22nd Street ball park at 11 A.M.
Ellis, teammates to get ID cards

Pittsburgh — Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe Brown said Monday he is issuing identification cards to players to avoid incidents like one last Friday in which a stadium guard barred pitcher Dock Ellis from entering Cincinnati’s Riverfront Stadium.

The guard refused to admit Ellis and teammates Willie Stargell and René Stennett through the players’ gate unless they showed identification. Ellis became involved in an argument with the guard, who pulled a gun on the 27-year-old pitcher and sprayed him with chemical Mace.

“Toward my knowledge, no stadium in the National League requires that players produce identification to get inside,” said Br0wn. “My long and close association with Dock gives me the earnest conviction that either action is completely unlike him.” Brown said.

The guard, David Hatter, claims he sprayed Ellis because he thought the pitcher was going to punch him.

UNTHINKABLE EXELENCE

- Let us do back to the Great Bambino himself, Babe Ruth. Did Ruth do all things wrong at the plate. First, his stance was too close to the plate, a fact that most baseball players dismiss as just a matter of personal preference. However, they would be surprised to learn that Ruth himself was extremely skilled at hitting the ball, even when he was the smallest player in the league. They would be amazed to discover that Ruth was actually better than any other player in history, including Babe Ruth himself. Ruth was the greatest player of his time, and he was able to hit the ball farther and more consistently than any other player, even though he was much shorter.

- Rogers Hornsby choked the bat half way up and he was one of the greatest hitters in baseball history. Rogers Hornsby was a great hitter, but he was never as good as Ruth. Ruth was the most dominant player in baseball history.

- From the time Berra stepped up to the plate he continuously waved Birmingham or Mobile, so many times lately. "I don't know how many times I've hit the ball out of the park," Berra said. "I've hit the ball out of the park more times than any other player in history."

- "I wish I had a baseball bat," Berra said. "I wish I had a baseball bat to use in the field." Berra was a great player, but he never had a chance to catch a ball in the field. He was a catcher, but he never had a chance to catch a ball in the field.

THE GROWLING GENIUS

Neck Ailment Slows Braves' Slugger Aaron

ATLANTA - Atlanta Braves slugger Hank Aaron, new one home run behind San Francisco's Willie Mays, was at a critical attitude in his neck, but Manager Manager Manager Manager Monday said it wasn't serious.

"The doctors feel it may bother him periodically," said Donald Davis, assistant to the Braves president. "It may be a strain, but it isn't considered serious at all.

"It's just a day-to-day thing as to when he plays."

Aaron, 30, was checked by physicians in St. Louis last week, and although he was listed as a "possible" and "probable" player when the Braves returned to Atlanta on Sunday.

Aaron sat out Sunday's game against the Cardinals, saying: "I don't know how serious it is. I don't know if I'm going to play tonight. Mostly and turned it all off and as a sedative didn't help the pain.

"It's hurting me worse than anything else. It's about the only thing I know. I once told a woman I've got to get some kind of relief so I can get some rest.

MEMORIAM

TAMPA — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Essie C. Beard who departed this life May 12, 1972. God's love. Your absence is missed by many aunts and uncles in our family. Too much credit blamed in non-payment of debts. Washington — Next to unemployment, overextension of credit is the in-reason consumers fail to pay debts, according to a survey made public this week. The third ranking cause of non-payment is illness, the National Commission on Consumer Finance said in announcing "preliminary findings" of the banks and finance companies.

"The banks and finance companies believe the 'deadbeat' is not a significant factor in the non-payment of debts," the commission's chairman, Ira M. Millstein of New York, said. The nine-member fact-finding commission, set up in 1970 by a 1968 act of Congress, is preparing a final report on consumer sentiment: The Republican candidate who will oppose Mr. Fauntroy in November is still in question. William Clay, a Chinese-American medical doctor, held a title lead over the Rev. Jerry A. Moore Jr., a black Baptist minister. Absentee votes and challenges will decide the winner. Elected officials hope to complete the Republican vote tally this week.
