Bill To Boost Maids’ Wages

WASHINGTON — There are about 1.5 million household workers in America earning an average of $1,800 to $2,000 a year, at least $1,200 less than the minimum wage guaranteed other employees by law.

"The typical wage earners in this country work 9 to 5 and consider that a full day," said Rep. Shirley Chisholm (D., N. Y.). "A household worker’s day begins at 6:30 or 7 a.m. when she feeds her own family, sends the children to school and takes the baby to the sitter.

"After a long bus ride, she makes breakfast for her second family, house cleans for the day, makes lunch, dinner, and when the last dish is wiped, starts the long ride home again. She has to stretch out her budget with food stamps and clothes from Goodwill."

These discouraging facts have become the basis for a push by Rep. Chisholm, several other members of Congress, and various women’s civil rights and consumer groups, for passage of a bill which would extend minimum wage benefits to domestic workers for the first time.

The bill, which consists of amendments to the existing Fair Labor Standards Act, would increase the minimum wage (which is now $1.60 an hour for nonagricultural employees; $1.30 an hour for agricultural workers) and extend these benefits to domestic workers, who are not now covered.

If passed, domestic workers would receive $1.80 an hour the first year and $2 an hour thereafter.

"This would just be a bare, baby start," said Shirley Downs, Rep. Chisholm’s legislative aide, who has been working on the bill. "It would be the first real legislative labor protection they would...

Youth Board Member ‘Raps’ On Opportunity In Program

During a long hour conversation with Essie Turner it was quite obvious that he possessed the traits necessary to be an ‘A’ member of Tampa's Youth Board.

Turner, at 21 is Technical Advisor for the Inter-governmental Relations Component of the Youth Board.

The 24-hour Progress Village youth is very outspoken when it comes to the board with which he has worked in for the past three years. "I'm very grateful to the program...I'm indebted," he said. The members of the board live off a relatively small salary but this doesn't bother Turner. To him just being in the program and being able to take advantage of the opportunities available is enough for him. He said, "I don't care about the monetary values."

"With facial and physical expressions, Essie ‘rapped’ continuously about the things he has gotten chances to do since he has been on the Youth Board. He's gained more from his actions there than all his formal education. Essie said he has grown in business and governmental knowledge.

Essie was asked what he does in his time when he isn't working with the board. "To me, being a member of the youth board is a 24-hour thing. You meet the dudes on the blocks and they say, 'Hey man, I saw you on the TV, tell me more about the program,' and there you are, off work, talking about the youth board." Whenever he has time, he plays basketball, football or settle down and read a good book.

Essie doesn't think of recruiting blacks for policemen will work. "It's a psychological thing. How can a guy that's been beating black on the streets and then try to accept him once he puts on a uniform. That just won't work," he concluded.

Owner Halts Burglar Attempt

The Rainbow Heights Grocery, 3617 E. Chelsea, was the scene of an attempted burglary early Sunday morning.

Owner, 3611 E. Chelsea, told police that he woke about 4:30 feeling bad, and decided to go over to the store for some medicine. He reached the store and noticed the outside light, always left on, was out. He could hear a tapping noise from the rear, so he went around behind the store and saw a man trying to open the door. Mr. Tim said that he had his revolver with him, so he fired one shot into the air as a warning, and told the man to lie down in the street under the light. Mrs. Tim called the police.

The burglar was identified as George Muldrew, 36, of 4506 35th Street. Police arrested him at the scene.

The shooting of Gov. George C. Wallace Monday at a Laurel, Maryland shopping center was not only shocking, but testifies once again to the violent nature of many people in our country. We fought and will continue to fight everything Mr. Wallace stood for, but certainly respect him as a politician and his individual right to have opinions different from ours.

Mr. Wallace played on the emotions of people to his own political advantage with a stylish rhetoric seldom seen on the American political scene. It is truly ironic and disturbing that the young black men who shot him was apparently an ardent advocate of the Governor's beliefs.

Advocacy of causes and political logic change every four years on the national scene. Mr. Wallace injected the issue of busing into the political equation in 1972. The wanna and unwarranted assassination attempt on his life will not destroy his ideas of how this country should stand en busing. Should Mr. Wallace not fully recover from his wounds, others will most certainly take his place, as was the case of the shooting of John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, Malcolm X and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

On the other side of the coin, Mr. Wallace and others who follow must find answers to depolarization of beliefs disillusioned too under the busing fuss, the law and order scheme, segregated housing, the Vietnam War, and job discrimination.

We all must work together for a strict gun control law and tell the masses the truth about where this country is headed if we continue to polarize along racial lines, war lines, and segregated lines.

The shooting of Mr. Wallace has left his followers holding their fingers in the air to see where the wind is blowing. Should he recover, the situation is ripe for laying the ground work for the possible entry of a dark horse in Miami. It is a situation many now want to know: What is the issue on which to pin their judgment? It could very well be the deplorable shooting of George Wallace on May 15, 1972.

Social Security Age Lowering

Past racial discrimination has a way of making even the most finely tuned programs work to the disadvantage of victims who suffered years of inequities. Take the Social Security Administration's retirement system that pays elderly people benefits at age 65 (with some established deviations).

Because of past discriminations, black men in this country are at a great disadvantage under the program. According to figures from the National Center for Health Statistics, only 47 per cent of them are living long enough to expect to collect their Social Security checks.

For white males, the figure is 65 per cent and for white females, 81 per cent. What can be done about this situation is a problem for which no one has come up with an answer.

Hobart C. Jackson, chairman of the National Caucus on Black Aged, would like to see the retirement level lowered for black males. He makes the point that the life expectancy of black males actually decreased during the last ten years.

NCBA probably has its work cut out for it in trying to get the age level lowered for black men. On the basis of figures cited, NCBA seems to have a case. Certainly some attention should be devoted to the problem. Apparently it is a problem that is not working itself out. How about a little explaining and assuring, Mr. President.

It was indeed a pleasure to be among more than 100 welfare-oriented county officials, parents and citizens who attended the dedication ceremonies last Tuesday of the opening of the sixth day care and educational center for preschool children of low-income families.

"The spacious and well-equipped facility, located at 2911 East Henry Street, will offer many educational and social advantages to at least 50 youngsters before their advent into the Head Start Program.

"Once again, we see evidence of how local and federal monies can be combined effectively to benefit poor people. The spacious structure, with a large, well-equipped playground, was paid for by Hillsborough County. The operational funds of the program were provided by the Office of Child Development.

Youths' Black Pride Showing

DALLAS — The struggles of blacks to achieve equal status in America has increased the emotional problems of some youths, but instilled a new pride in being black among children, psychiatrists reported here.

Black children now drew pictures of people who look Negroes instead of whites, a team from the University of Kansas medical center at Kansas City told the American Psychiatric Association. Ten years ago, black children drew pictures of people who either had no features or looked like whites.

"The inclusion of racially identifiable details seems related to the values the group places on those attributes," reported Dr. James B. Fish of Charlotte, N.C.

"Without a positive self image which accepts and incorporates all the physical and psychological attributes of one's self, the individual cannot make an appropriate adjustment to any community... While that report focused on at least one positive effect of integration, a team from the University of Florida at Gainesville told the same panel that youth's pride for more emotional problems than either whites or blacks in general.

Dr. John J. Schwab and Nancy H. McCausland blamed this on the stresses during the past 20 years as blacks tried to win equal rights and assert their new pride in being black.

"The young black adult group has been exposed, during their formative years, to the socio-cultural change that has taken place in the last two decades," the University of Florida team reported.

"As young people they witnessed the turbulence in America in the 1960s and participated in the struggles accompanying de-segregation, but their opportunities were limited for sharing in the life styles and material benefits of the white society.

Homemakers, who from long experience know that there is really no such thing as making a doll's clothing with which to play, say that if we really want to help young births, or old ones for that matter, we will tell them about budgeting.

A few years ago, a survey made by the Ladies Home Journal determined that about seven-eleven percent of all our worries are about money. We expect that this is especially true for those who are just beginning to manage a house and family and trying to make the money they have provide all the things they need and just a few of the things they don't.

An economist advises that if we really want to know where our money goes or should, get it all down on paper, because "figures don't lie." Good budgets are not established in a day. Through the experience known to the Ladies Home Journal they say that if we really want to make the money they have, we can pay in installments.

$200,000 Grant

To Help Blacks

Become Foresters

TACOMA—Turkei Institute of Alabama and the Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation of Tacoma, Washington, have announced a $200,000 undergraduate scholarship program to encourage black students to become professional foresters.

George H. Weyerhaeuser, president of the nation’s largest forest products firm, said the $200,000 foundation grant is aimed at “helping to correct the great disparity between the number of black wood and professional foresters in the United States.” He noted that five years ago there were only two black foresters out of 27,000; today the total number of foresters has increased to about 65,000 while the number of black foresters remains low.

With the Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation grant, Tuskegee Institute will be able to award from $1,600 undergraduate scholarships each year for the next five years; establish a professional forestry faculty position in its department of agricultural sciences; and purchase all of the necessary training aids for the program.

Ali And Wife Suing To Get Back $97,048

CHICAGO — Muhammad Ali, a former heavyweight boxing champion, and his wife, Belinda, filed a suit in Federal court last week to recover $104,062 in income taxes they said were wrongly withheld.

The dispute between the Ali and the Internal Revenue Service involves the status of the Muhammad Temple of Islam. If the temple qualified as a church, then contributions to the church could be deducted. The IRS said it did not.

The suit said that during an IRS audit of Ali's 1966 income tax return, the IRS had wrongly indicated that Ali's money was tax-exempt. The IRS also disallowed a $9,583.90 deduction for Ali's gift to the church in 1967.

The $100 million lawsuit against the IRS also seeks $97,048.48 of Ali's gross income and a $7,013.52 deduction from Ali's income.

Althea Eyes Tennis Comeback

NEW YORK — Althea Gibson, the black queen of tennis during the 1950s and early 60s, may return to the women's circuit with an almost unbelieveable comeback after she lost her grip on her mind and traces of a valuable tennis tournament.

Miss Gibson's reign in the tennis world was fully recognized last year when she was inducted into the National Lawn Tennis Foundation. She was one of many other "Female" members, she feels she still has much to offer and that she's happy to return to the game to compete with today's winners.

"The way I feel right now I would love to get back into competition. All I have to do is maintain my weight and return to the game. It is a goal I have set for myself."

BETHUNE BASEBALLERS WIN SEVENTEENTH STRAIGHT GAME

DAYTONA BEACH — The Bethune-Cookman College Wildcats defeated the Florida A & M Rattlers 4-3 this week chalking up their 17th consecutive conference win. Corps number six in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, B-C has not lost a league contest in three years. Under the direction of Coach John Knight they have become a "conference power."

Another Brock At Southern U. Headed For Stardome

BY FRED HEARNS

BATON ROUGE, La. — Say the name Brock and most baseball fans immediately think of a sure-gloved outfielder who runs and hits with the ease of a man born with a bat in one hand and a glove in the other.

Ever since Lou Brock joined the St. Louis Cardinals, after a trade by the Chicago Cubs, and ran rings around the National League, rival pitchers have spent long hours on schemes that might keep him off the bases. They haven't had much luck.

And that's the way it's been with the 1972 Southern University Jaguars and their newest Brock — Fresonville outfielder Mike. Like his cousin a decade ago, D.J. Brock wears a "uniform" and enemy pitchers' become doomed, prey once he steps into the batters box.

A 5-10, 195-pound former football — quarterback and baseball outfielder from New Orleans' St. Augustine High School, Brock hit .348 during the regular season for Coach Emory Blakely's Jaguars. Southern crushed Louisiana Col­lege 10-5 May 6 to close out the campaign with a 23-12 record. The Jags earlier won the Southwestern Athletic Conference title with a 1-0 mark and will represent District 30 in the NAIA Baseball Tournament to decide the national champion.

In addition to Brock's busy batting average, he finished his first college season with 49 runs scored, to lead the club. His 36 walks were tied for first, his 35 RBIs placed him second on the team and he made only three errors in center field, although he started all 41 games this season. His eight home runs also led the team.

"The Jags were by no means a sure bet to repeat but Mike's batting average was only .011 best among the regulars. The leading hitters were co-captain and second baseman Andre Hill, left fielder Roger "Cader", 301, first baseman Ar­thur "Buck" Jones, 381, and Rob Brock. Catcher Danny Goodwin hit .361.

Other regulars and their averages were shortstop James Vic­torian, 301, leftfielder Scottie Harvey, 392, and third baseman Al Harper, 381.
Question: Do you think the Miami Dolphins can win the Super Bowl next season?
Answer: Of course the Miami Dolphins could win the Super Bowl next season but first they have got to get to it. Getting to the Super Bowl is the real problem.

Question: What do you think of Charlie Bates, Southern University's new head football coach?
Answer: I know Coach Bates and I know that he really knows the game. That is about all I say at this time.

Question: Is there anyone left in the light-heavyweight ranks for Champion Bob Foster to fight? Why doesn't Foster go to fight that would be worth the game. That is about all I don't know of anyone in the light-heavyweight ranks for Foster to fight. I have said this before and I'll say it again. I care not to get involved with what professional wrestlers do and now they do it. People like what they do and if it suits them, who am I to grumble? No, I don't dig them, but I surely am not going to knock them.

Question: Do you think Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts is through as a quarterback?
Answer: Time has a knack of taking its toll with everything. Johnny Unitas is no exception.

FACTS AND FIGURES
Every one in a while remember those creep back of the old days at Middletown High School. Quite often I think of all the great athletes that went by during my twenty-three year stay there. Believe me there was a host of great ones to go by and it is gratifying to know that I had something to do with their development.

Not only think about the great athletes that went on to do well also those that didn't reach their full potential for one reason or another. Earl "Jave" Green could have been one of the greatest shot put artists to ever come out of this area. We didn't even have a track and field team in those days. Harold "Blue" Williams and William Braxton could have been super pole vaulters, had they had proper training and competition. Ralph Green could throw a javelin nearly out of sight. Earl Olymp could have been a great sprinter. We just didn't have the facilities nor the coaches.

Clifford Canty could hit a baseball out of sight but we didn't have a team. "Bee" Friendy could have been a great southpaw pitcher. George "Chin-A-Long" Stevens was the sensation of the state as a freshman basketball player. George dropped out after his freshman year.

Question: Where did Jack Nicklaus come from?
Answer: Jack Nicklaus is from Columbus, Ohio.

Question: What do you think of professional wrestling matches? Do you think they are the real thing?
Answer: I have said this before and I'll say it again. I care not to get involved with what professional wrestlers do and now they do it. People like what they do and if it suits them, who am I to grumble? No, I don't dig them, but I surely am not going to knock them.

SPORTANIC FLOODS
By WILLIAM O. BETHEL

ALL ON HIS TOES

Last Saturday I watched very closely a playback of the Muham-hammad Ali vs. Joe Frazier fight. The fight looked so much the same in time and effort to see the fight was because I wanted to analyze Ali's efforts as compared to his efforts in the past. I must truthfully say that it was good to see a trim and condition Ali. It was also good to see Ali on his toes again and stay on the ball of the shoes for the twelve rounds. Ali looked a bit like the Ali of old.

FORCE OR FOOLY

In trying to carefully analyze Ali's efforts there is no doubt in this writer's mind that being a fighter he fought a few years ago. Ali still moves well but the old quickness definitely is not there anymore. Everyone now knows that Ali definitely is in trouble coaching ranks next school term. Coach Smith is currently treating all of his efforts toward getting the Rattler basketball situation. Coach Oglesby is recuperating satisfactorily and is definitely will not coach football this season. I even say I am not as confident as I was that Ali will take Frazier as I was before watching the Charelston fight.

SLIPPING ALL - WOUNDED JOE

Takes it from Muhammad Ali has slipped and slipped more than I thought. Sure Muhammad Ali is still a great fighter but he slipped. One thing I know for sure as for Ali when and if he gets it in with Frazier again. I respect Frazier's ability as a fighter even though I don't exactly like his style. I must say Frazier doesn't have anything on being a shot fighter. He depends on intestinal fortitude, aggressiveness and punching ability to win fights. Joe is the type of fighter that is not a Sand which he could be hit with a sledge hammer and still, stay on his feet. Joe Frazier can take a punch he's a shot fighter. Joe has a great deal of heart and courage and is an adding ring roper. Joe has discouraged many of his opponents by just hitting them but this is nothing like it because he is hit by everything but the steel. Actually Frazier destroyed Ali's whole bag when he took everything Ali had to offer in the 11th round. Ali didn't get his bag and asked him if he was all he had gone back to his corner in utter frustration and in the 12th round and Frazier more or less took over.

Quick Quips:

Spackled trout and silver trout are doing real well in local area and fishing will be better in the Hillsborough River than it has been in a long time. Some people are even doing well in the Manatee River.

Learned from Coach "Big Jim" Williams that Coach Edward Griffith chose to recuperating satisfactorily from surgery. Coach Oglesby by definitely will not coach football this season. He will concentrate all of his efforts toward getting the Rattler basketball situation back in greater shape. I must say Joe Frazier is a very, very hard man to fight and even harder to beat.

Frazier isn't too done in by the last Ali fight I am quite apprehensive about Ali beating him. All is my man but he just can't afford to go trapped by Joe Frazier. I have to call them like I see them.

TWIN'S HITTING STAR
Darwin Made the Switch In Time

Now that all the major basketball war are over except the finals of the American Basketball Association playoffs, it is still interesting to look back at the really big one. The really big things in basketball this past season was the UCLA Bruins and the Los Angeles Lakers with Florida State University being the surprise of the season.

The UCLA Bruins proved their super season record was no fluke by going on to win an unprecedented fifth straight National Collegiate Athletic Association championship. The Bruins were the essence of discipline and composed even when they were in trouble.

Regardless of how good the UCLA players were credit has to go to Coach Dick Howser, the UCLA marvelous mentor. Woodson has to be a super coach to keep such immaculate discipline and composing even when they were in trouble.

I think Coach Darwin was the second best, back up pupil in an experienced team as far as he did him and him being a relatively inexperienced coach himself.

The greatest thing about Coach Hugh Durham is the fact that he had enough courage to fight custom, tradition threats and sometimes even the establishment to put an all black basketball team on the court for Florida State. Coach Durham has brought forth and is an essential factor in becoming a winner. Coach Durham will win.

Coach Darvin Brown did one of the most magnificent coaching jobs ever done in professional ranks with the Los Angeles Lakers. If for no other reason, Sharmian has to be commended for his extraordinary feat of letting Williams Chamberlain to cooperate. Sharmian found a way to get to the always obstinate Chamberlain without having to force the issue,Sharmian always before has been a menace to coaches. Williams always before did what Williams wanted to do.

Sharmian avoided doing things the same way he acknowledged the great Chamberlain for he knew that if he was to win it all he would have to have Will with him. As one Lakers player put it, "He made his 28 hard practices, we got a new anything to the Franchise, we got a new approach, we got a new approach, we got a new approach."

Professional fighters rarely carry a personal grudge against their opponents. One of the best, former light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, was no exception—until now.

The seemingly ageless veteran of 27 years and 106 victories in the ring, wrote in his autobiography, "When two fighters who respect each other have fought a hard, tough go, they usually develop a camaraderie that lasts forever."

Today, the old master—he is either 55 or 58 years old, depending upon whose figures you believe—in fighting opponents he does not feel kindly toward. They are drug abusers, racing predators, and the forces that make young people drop out of school.

"These are the real enemies of our country today that are undermining everything we have worked for so long," Moore recently told soldiers at Fort Carson. He now came to the southern Colorado Army post as part of a tour of military installations.

"In this program I will motivate these young men and make them proud of themselves and our country," he said. "The goal is to destroy the enemy on the inside of our society."

His program is called "Any Body Can." He has given 78 volunteers at Fort Carson an intensive course in healing and the unique Moore philosophy of life, partially expressed in verse as "It is time to smile, before it is time to die. It is time to be happy, before it is time to be sad. It is time to love, before it is time to hate."

It is time to be happy, before it is time to be sad. It is time to love, before it is time to hate."

The Moore approach to conquering violence is building confidence and self-respect in the individual, partially by showing the volunteers through calisthenics, basic boxing, and jump roping. They are shown the basics before permitting them to hit the gloves.

"What is that in wrong with many of the gymnasiums today? They just get into the ring, and they don't seem to feel for the other man. Everything is tackles and gouges in his hands.

"It wasn't old conditions you get from boxing, but from every condition you can understand the problems of the black people. You can understand the basic thing and you can explain it to them."

"These men (his students) are finding answers to questions that have been unanswered for them for a long time, and they are finding them because they want to be part of the group."

Moore's long reign as light heavyweight champion, and his 5-1 record, made him happy when Moore knocked out a favored while fighter. A movie titled "Moore Knockout," McGinnis, whose pro career was over.

"I'm not sure if it's worth the money we've made," he said, "but I think it's worth the effort we've put into it."

"I wanted to help young people from getting into trouble. But I had to have a vehicle on which to expend, and no greater tool I find than being champion of the world. It took me 30 years to reach the top, but the best fast forward.

Mayor Daley, as do most mayors, when their police departments come under attack, said he had no apology to make to anyone and that he was proud of the Chicago police department.

Though his campaign is picking up steam daily, Senator George McGovern is still considered too far "left" by leaders of organized labor. But this hostility may not be insurmountable. A grudging reassessment of the Senator as a viable opponent for President Nixon has been acknowledged by some labor leaders following his tough campaign and unexpected success in the primary elections thus far. Need is being taken of the fact that the Senator seems to have attracted some of the protest vote of the alienated blue collar workers who otherwise might have turned to George Wallace.
